City receives bonding program

The city Monday received its bonding program for the proposed issue of $2 million in general obligation and industrial revenue bonds to be issued for Triangle Industries.

In other matters coming before the City Council at Monday night's meeting, the council was told it would be required by federal law to adopt flood plain zoning or be ineligible for any federal funds, grants or home loans; asked for an assessment on land the city needs for the extension of the airport runway; approved a $2.91 per household monthly fee for removal of municipal solid waste; and accepted a grant for the purchase of a new radio console for the police department.

TRIANGLE BONDS

The city will ask voters early in December to approve a $2 million bond issue to finance locating of a Triangle Conduit and CableCo. plant in the building formerly occupied by Anchor Toy Corp.

The bond issues will include $750,000 in general obligation bonds, for purchase and renovation of the building, and $1.2 million in industrial revenue bonds, for purchase of equipment and machinery.

City Attorney Manuel Drumm told the council that Triangle will take the building on a 20-year lease, under which the lease payments equal the bond payments. If the bond payments rise or fall, he said, the lease does likewise.

"The basic thing about this lease is it doesn't cost you any money," Drumm said.

Triangle will pay the lease, by paying the money to a disbursing agent, who, in turn, pays the bond holder. The city will never touch the money, Drumm said.

If Triangle should default on its part of the agreement, the city could take possession of the building and fixtures and resell them.

Triangle will begin operation in January 1975 if the bond issue is approved. The firm will employ 125 people with an annual payroll of $750,000. It is estimated that additional jobs for 100 truck drivers will be created to haul the finished product to market. Triangle will not employ the drivers, as all trucking will be done by private carriers.

The Sikeston plant will draw wire from copper billets, with other operations consisting of stranding, coating with plastic insulation material, assembly of hardware and distribution of a 14-state area.

FLOOD ZONING

City Manager Charles Church told the council the city has been told by the Department of Housing and Urban Development that it has 90 days to adopt flood plain zoning and building regulations as part of the federally sponsored flood insurance program.

Previously, participation in the program was voluntary, but Church said he has been told by HUD officials that if Sikeston does not participate, it will lose all fedearlly subsidized loans and grants, including Federal Housing Authority and Veterans Administration home loans.

Church said a representative from HUD would be in Sikeston Nov. 19 to discuss the flood plain program with city officials. He said the representative will be taken around the city and shown what a large burden the federal program will place on the city.

AIRPORT EXTENSION

The council turned down a plan to trade property with landowner Burt Rowe to obtain property for the extension of the airport runway 500 feet to the north.

The swap, worked out by the Airport Advisory Board, would have traded 26.2 acres of Rowe's land north of the runway for 26.2 acres of city-owned land between the new recreation complex and the rodeo grounds.

The council instead asked that the land be appraised and indicated it would be interested in a dollar value gtrade or condemnation. Councilmen believe the city land is more valuable than Rowe's land.

A representative of the Airport Advisory Board told the council that the land is necessary if the airport is ever to expand. The Rowe property is being considered for a subdivision, he said. If the 26.2 acres are subdivided, he said the airport would be locked in and expansion would be much more expensive.

GARBAGE FEE

The council approved a monthly solid waste removal fee of $2.91 per household. The fee will be included on the light and water bill.

The fee includes $2.75 for the hauler, 15.5 cents for billing costs and one-half cent to cover delinquent payments.

If the delinquent bills are not paid, the ordinance gives the city the power to cut off the customers's utilities.

ARTS COUNCIL

The question of an arts council forthe city was raised by Mrs. Dorothy Moore, a member of the Missouri Council of Arts. She asked the council to consider creating a council similar to those in Cape Girardeau and Stoddard County.

U.S. asks others to help feed the world's hungry

ROME (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger today proposed that the world's major food producers coordinate their grain reserves so that "within a decade no child will go to bed hungry ..., no family will fear for its next day's bread."

Delivering the main opening-day address at the World Food Conference, Kissinger called the aim of the proposed system of reserves a bold objective that would cope with the source of hunger.

Kissinger also urged newly rich oil producing states to help poor countries buy food, fertilizer and farm equipment. Quadrupled prices for crude oil over the last year have produced a surplus of around $60 billion in the oil states and have forced hard times on developing countries that have to decide whether to buy oil or food with scant foreign exchange reserves.

The grain supply deficit in developing countries will reach about 85 million tons by 1985, Kissinger said. Financing them to increase production "must become one of the priority objectives of the countries and institutions that have the major influence in the international monetary system," he said.

In Manila, David Rockefeller, chairman of The Chase Manhattan Bank, told a news conference failure of the oil producers to share their wealth could lead the world into depression.

The Rome food conference, sponsored by the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, opened with an appeal from U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim for an "equitable global strategy" to ward off mass starvation.

Like an international panel of economists and food experts whose report was issued on the eve of the conference, Waldheim said the rich nations consume too much and the poor aren't doing enough to help themselves.

A senior American official said the Soviet bloc countries except Romania are unlikely to approve the U.S. proposals, but he expects endorsement from most other nations.

The grain reserves coordination system Kissinger proposed for the United States and other food producers appeared to conflict somewhat with U.S. Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz' statement Monday that international control of stockpiles would be inefficient.

Kissinger asked the conference to organize a Reserve Coordinating Group to negotiate a detailed agreement for an international system of grain reserves at the earliest possible time.

The food producing nations would exchange information on reserve levels, crop prospects and their plans for importing or exporting grains. They would have a common responsibility to hold reserves to meet demands occasioned by drought and other catastrophes and would decide on "measures for dealing with noncompliance."

Kissinger said a worldwide reserve of up to 16 million tons above present levels may be needed for adequate food security.

The report on the eve of the conference predicted a grave confrontation between the af-

Voter to mark 5 ballots

CHARLESTON — During today's general election, voters in the 16 precincts of Mississippi County will be marking five separate ballots.

Candidates for state, district and county offices are listed on one ballot. The only contested races on the ballot are on the state and district levels. Democratic candidates for county offices face no opposition.

Other ballots include: an initiative ballot proposing a new campaign financing law, a constitutional ballot with two proposed amendments, a judicial ballot and a health department trustee ballot.

The first amendment would permit 18-year-old registered voters to vote in all elections. The second amendment authorizes indebtedness by all municipalities and counties for industrial development upon approval by a two-thirds majority and the issuing of revenue bonds by cities with a simple majority approval of voters.

On the judicial ballot, voters will decide if William H. Billings, incumbent judge of the Missouri Court of Appeals in the Springfield district, shall be returned to office.

The final ballot provides for the election of two members to the board of trustees of the Mississippi County Health Department. Travis "Corky" Shelby Jr. was the only candidate to file for a four-year position.

Food basket costs only 3 cents more in October

By PAT GROJEAN

October's average food basket cost in Sikeston was only three cents more than the calculated cost for the September average food basket, making a total increase of $1.41 since The Daily Standard began its monthly survey five months ago.

The food basket cost for 42 selected items to Sikeston consumers averaged $30.64 at the end of October, compared to $30.61 for the same items in September.

Food basket costs were averaged after a survey of six grocery stores --- Sikeston IGA, Safeway, Liberty, S & S Discount, Marks Food Mart and Barkett's Big Star --- the same stores used in the previous surveys.

The largest price increase for individual products in the past has been for five pounds of sugar, but this month sugar prices in the six local stores showed a one- cent decrease, which does not follow the national price rise for the product.

Last month the average local price was up 75 cents from June 27 when the first survey was taken.

The largest increases this month were registered by instant tea, Miracle Whip salad dressing, ice cream and lettuce. A three-ounce jar of Lipton instant tea was up 15 cents over the past month, while the price for Miracle Whip was up 13 cents.

One-half gallon of vanilla ice cream increased the most, rising 18 cents from the previous month, for a 41-cent total increase over the July figure for the same product. A head of lettucce cost 12 cents more this month, after falling two cents last month.

Meat prices generally dropped during October. Bacon was down 14 cents a pound, ground beef dropped 10 cents and round steak with bone decreased 16 cents.

Other price reductions were noted for Crisco shortening, down 10 cents, and one pound of regular grind coffee, 15 cents lower.

For the second straight month, the average milk price did not change. Other items for which the price remained the same were bologna, vegetable oil, fruit cocktail, Minute Rice, macaroni dinner, spaghetti, quick oats and bread.

Fresh vegetable prices, other than lettuce and tomatoes, fell a few cents. One pound of carrots was down five cents, following a six-cent rise last month.

Turn to page 5 for a table of prices for the 42 items surveyed.

Bluff man seriously hurt

GRAY RIDGE — A Poplar Bluff man received serious injuries in a two-car traffic accident at 9:30 a.m. today on Highway 60 one and a half miles northeast of town.

The highway patrol reported that the accident occurred when a southbound car driven by James Bain, 18, of Essex pulled onto the highway from a gravel road and was struck in the side by an eastbound car driven by Ronald Cates, 25, of Poplar Bluff Route Seven.

Cates received serious injuries and was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston for treatment.

Burglar scared off

A member of the Murray Lane Baptist Church, 807 W. Murray Lane, surprised a burglar in a hallway of the church about 6:50 p.m. Monday, according to police.

Police said the church member found the man sitting in front of a soft drink machine trying to pry off the front of the coin box. When the man was asked what he was doing, he replied, "it's none of your business."

The church member called police, but the man was gone by the time officers arrived.

Police said they did not know if anything was taken.

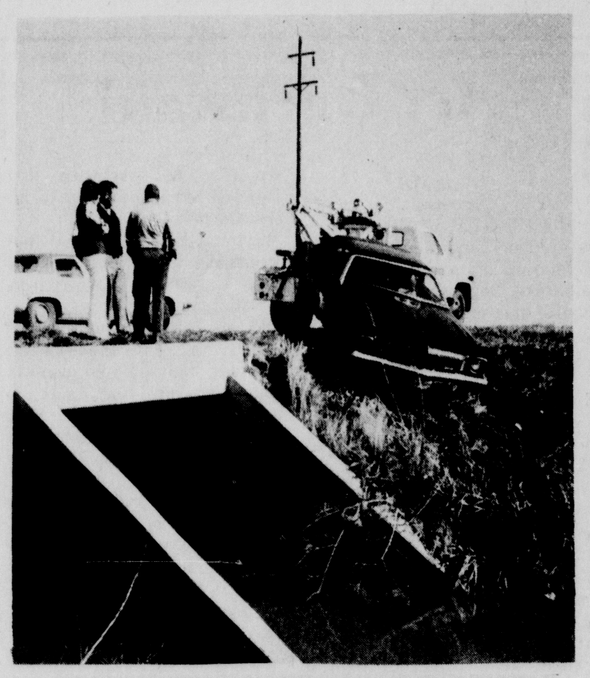
2 suspects arrested

BENTON — Scott County Deputy Sheriff Vernon "Bud" Jones said today he arrested two men Sunday for the alleged theft of hogs from a farm in Ripley County.

Jones said the two, Ray Dyson, 18, formerly of Doniphan, and David LaRue, 24, of Essex, were arrested at the home of Dyson's brother in Salcedo. Dyson is also absent without leave from the military, Jones said.

The two allegedly shot the hogs and brought the meat to Scott County. The meat was recovered at another man's home, Jones said.

The two have been returned to Ripley County to face charges.



Harris given probation for Simmons shooting

BENTON — Jim Harris, 47, of Sikeston received a five-year suspended sentence and was placed on supervised probation in Circuit Court in connection with the March 27 shooting death of Enoch Simmons, 29, of Sikeston.

On Sept. 19, Harris had pleaded guilty to a charge of manslaughter, reduced from an original charge of first-degree murder.

At that time, Judge Marshall Craig referred Harris to the State Department of Probation and Parole for presentence investigation and ordered him to return to court on Oct..24 for sentencing.

Under the charge against Harris, he reportedly shot Simmons three times following an argument at Harris's Cafe at 201 Luther St. in Sikeston. Simmons was pronounced dead on arrival at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Jimmie Sloan was sentenced to serve three concurrent four-year terms in custody of the State Department of Corrections.

Upon conviction of forging a check on Aug. 20 to Super D Drug by signing the name Earl Sloan and writing a $100 bad check to Slusher Inc. and another charge of forging a check, both on Aug. 13.

Judge Craig referred Sloan to the Department of Probation and Parole for presentence investigation to determine if he would be suitable for parole.

After pleading guilty to an Aug. 21 charge of writing a $10 bad check to U-Pump-It Station, John Harold Schrum was placed on supervised probation for two years.

Clyde Eugene Parden was sentenced to one year in the county jail after he pleaded guilty to a Nov. 29 charge of tampering with a motor vehicle.

After pleading guilty to an Aug. 11 charge of tampering with a motor vehicle, Frank Burney was also placed on supervised probation for two years.

Marvine B. Thomas was sentenced to prison for four years for breaking into Prosecuting

There is an almost universal human desire to believe that peace is the natural condition of man, that armies are temporary nuisances, that conflicts of interest can be dissolved by a policy of goodwill. None of these things is true, but people like to believe they are; and one of the differences between democracies and the other sort of political system is that in democracies people elect politicians who can form governments which behave as if wishes were facts."

If insurance companies get their way, people will pay at least 10 per cent more for coverage on autos and homes in the near future.

According to a U.S. News & World report, the culprit, again, is inflation -- with rising costs of auto repairs, medical care and property claims causing widespread losses for insurance firms.

Early this summer, companies began filing with state insurance commissioners for rate boosts on home insurance and similar requests for auto-policy increases are now expected.

This comes at a time when government officials and consumer advocates argue that lower accident rates -- resulting from slower speeds and less driving -- merit a slash in auto insurance premiums.

Most state insurance commissioners are holding hearings and have advised insurers not to take windfall profits. In some cases, commissioners have sought rate reductions.

But in nearly every case, insurance firms have blocked proposed cuts, either through law suits or by convicning the commissioners that double-digit inflation has outweighed the effects of fewer auto accidents. In addition, insurance experts point out that over-all construction and home repair costs have increased more than 50 per cent since 1967. As a result, they say, many homes may be seriously underinsured unless owners have reviewed their coverage lately.

SHOULD BE HEARD

Drugs and drug prescribing are one of the most sensitive areas of health care. In any program whereby the federal government assumes major responsibility for health care expenses the pharmaceutical industry fears the impact of inflexible controls on doctors and patients alike.

The president of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association observes that the drug industry's "principal, immediate concern is that Congress and officials of the Executive Branch clearly understand that certain proposals advanced in the name of cost curtailment would pose grave problems regarding the quality of drug products and their availability." One of these is a proposal for the establishment of a "...Federal Formulary and the appointment of a Formulary Committee in the Department of HEW (Health, Education and Welfare) to determine which medications would be qualified for reimbursement for beneficiaries under various Social Security programs."

After summarizing the ways in which a Federal Formulary and the determination of medications to be included in it by a committee would virtually guarantee the end of prescription drug progress as we have known it in the United States, the pharmaceutical association official declared: "There is no other way to say it: under this arrangement, a small, part- time Government committee would be empowered, on the basis of highly questionable criteria, to decide the life or death of all drug products which are now lawfully on the market. It is no good to pretend that rejected drugs would still be available; a medicine that is not eligible under a Federal drug program would be a lost cause." Nothing could be more in the public interest than the desire of the prescription drug industry "to be heard" in the growing debate concerning national health insurance.

HEADS HE WINS, TAILS THEY LOSE

President Nixon, through his lawyer James D. St. Clair, has thrown before the Congress of the United States in formal, explicit terms a challenge that was merely implicit in his posture over the months leading up to that historic Monday morning in the august chamber of the Supreme Court.

In his defense of the doctrine of executive privilege — specifically, the right of the President to withhold 64 White House tapes from the special Watergate prosecutor — St. Clair stated his argument in these sweeping terms.

Only Congress, he told the justices, through the impeachment process, has the power to breach the constitutional balance between the executive, legislative and judicial branches of the government. In all other cases, even in a criminal proceeding, the President has not only the right but the duty to refuse to disclose confidential information in his possession to either Congress or the courts if, in his judgment, such disclosure would jeopardize or encroach upon his executive functioning.

In other words, in any m atter before the Congress in which it is believed the President has relevant information — even if the President is not himself personally involved — the House of Representatives must first impeach the President before he can be required to produce that information.

Their argument is that only if it is conclusively shown that the President has committed some impeachable, criminal act — only if the "body" is produced — may the President be impeached.

If St. Clair's view were to prevail, all the work of the Judiciary Committee, whose hearings are certainly a legitimate and necessary part of the impeachment process, would be an exercise in futility. In this and any other matter in which presidential performance were under question, Congress must take the extreme, ultimate step of impeachment — or do nothing.

If the view of the President's supporters on the committee were to prevail, no president would ever be impeached for anything — short of shooting someone on the White House lawn in full view of witnesses.

Obviously, it cannot be both ways. That is why the decision of the Supreme Court, whatever its effects on the futunes of one Richard M. Nixon, will be remembered as one of the most mementous decisions in the history of the Republic.

UNDER GOD

IF THANKSGIVING DAY celebrates only an historic occasion it can have little value to us as a nation and less to us as individuals. That history has much to teach us is true, but it is true only in principle; it cannot be true in incident.

We shall never have to face again the first cold winter of the Pilgrim Fathers. Privation may again come to the nation as it did in the '20's and '30's, but such privation of necessity had a more sophisticated origin in an industrial context after World War I than it could possibly have had for a few score of settlers concerned for family survival in a rural setting.

The solution in the '20's could not be as simple as learning from the Indians the right crops to grow and the correct protection and fertilization to give; it had to take account of world markets, the problems of technology, the redundancy of labor and the reconstitution of society.

Yet the principle on which solution comes is the same in both instances- cooperation with nature (or God's laws as evidenced in technology- the stress on metal or the need to consume one's own waste, for example), and cooperation with man- (cooperating with the bosses or the workers being equivalent to the previous need to cooperate with the Indians.)

And if the basis for our thanksgiving today is the same in principle as the basis for our first thanksgiving in 1621, so also must the nature of our thanksgiving be the same.

The thanksgiving of the Pilgrim Fathers was an acknowledgement of their dependence upon God. It is always the sin of an affluent age that it forgets the origin of its wealth and well- being. The first king of Israel had to be reminded of this dependence. "When thou wast little in thine own sight," said the prophet Samuel to Saul, "wast thou not made...king over Israel...Wherefore then didst thou not obey the voice of the Lord...?" (1 Samuel 15:17, 19)

"There is all the difference between making this a nation under God, and making a god of this nation," said Rep. William H. Hudnut, a United Presbyterian minister preaching to 300 guests at the White House recently. The phrase "a nation under God" was coined by Abraham Lincoln and "Lincoln's religion was rooted in an extensive knowledge of the Bible and in an intensive life of prayer."

"Under God" we in America have much cause for thanksgiving. We have an alcoholic problem, a drug problem, a crime problem, a governmental problem, an international problem, but the majority of our people have material prosperity, have leisure to enjoy their amenities, live in comparative security and die in their beds. "He hath not dealth with us after our sins; nor rewarded us according to our iniquity" (Psalm 103:10).

We have folk who live immoral lives, firms which publish pornography, societies which deny the existence of God, but our many churches are full and there are many voices quick to be raised at the sight of injustice or moral decay.

Individually, we can all have a Thanksgiving Day. "Count your blessings, name them one by one, and it will surprise you what the Lord hath done."

There are some who will cry, "What have I to thank God for?" and we admit there are those who live miserable lives, whose economic situation leaves much to be desired, and we ask Christians "under God" to care for those in need, so that the poor also can give God thanks.

There are others who are in dire straits through their own fault. "I've made a mess of my life. What have I to thank God for?" To them we say, "You can thank Him that He never leaves you; that the moment you want to change He is there to help you conquer the sin that so easily besets you, and to help you recover your self-respect.

You can be SAVED, and for the man who is saved, every day is Thanksgiving Day.

Boston Busing

The turmoil surrounding the busing of school in Boston continues unabataed. It is tragic in its consequences because it has provoked violence, hatred. clashed among public officials and, above all, loss of education for children. The roots of the tragedy rest with the federal judiciary which has legislated the operation of public schools, a function that should be left to local authorities, expecially independent school districts.

Integration is not the real issue. The heart of the problem is the forced busing of children across town to attend schools far removed from their homes. It is an uprooting of children from their natural surroundings in neighborhoods and the spending of many hours on buses during each semester. These are hours that could be used in study, work and play. Cross-town busing also subjects children to undue traffic hazards, expecially in the wintertime.

The federal judiciary has been adamant in its stand on the busing issue, but the remedy for the problem, as usual, rests with the people. If there is enough demand for a constitutional prohibition on prohibition on school busing, the Congress will submit an amendment to the people. Polls taken when the issue of forced busing first surfaced showed that black and white alilke were opposed to it.

One young Boston student was asked in a recent interview what children wanted. "Peace and an education," was the reply. It is an answer that adults of the nation should take to heart and heed with prompt action. HLH

$25 Million Low Estimate: One Bullet-Ridden Local Union Gave Quarter Million to Politicans.

WASHINGTON - Not too long ago the leader of this strategically placed St. Louis, Mo., pipefitters local was removed by two bullets in the head and three slugs in the body. Later the tough young son of a dead criminal who once owned the union piled up considerable power as its business agent and "someone" decided to resign him with a bomb.

Now it seems that the 1,600 to 1,700 members of St. Louis steamfitters Local 562 will try for a less bloody scheme of succession. A 47-year-old rank- and-file pipefitter, Bill Dolan, is running against the establishment in an election set for Dec. 14. The power post is called business manager.

All of which in the television business we call an "intro" to another hooked-in story -- which in this instance is the ill-famed local's heavy political money spent on regional and national elections.

This money is raised by the hundreds of thousands each year through what the federals call "shoe box" collection on the job sites -- and I have before me some fascinating figures. But first this: in the past, these monies have gone to the campaigns of the late Lyndon Johnson, Bob Kennedy and Sens. Eagleton, Symington and some members of the House.

But that's still another story. What's intended here is to show how the labor movement does pay out upward of $25 million in just one congressional season to finance its political friends.

Here is one bloody local which in the 1972 congressional year contributed $241,019.44. And this is from just one of thousands of politically active locals across the land. This money was raised by the union's Voluntary, Political, Educational, Legislative, Charity and Defense Fund. Note that the charitable contributions came to $31,333 that year. The figures for 1974 aren't in yet, of course.

Note too, please, that the union's central treasury also makes charitable contributions -- $960 in '72 while it gave "Christmas gifts to members," worth $48,671.82. So you now know where its heart lies.

The voluntary fund is collected each working day at the rate of $1 a man and $2 for "permit" worker. Of course, the union says the collections are "voluntary." But only some 60 of Local 562's hundreds of dues payers have refused to contribute. As they say in today's popular TV shows: "Some voluntary!"

But back to the range of "voluntary" money disbursements. In 1972 the fund "collected" $368,880.85. To handle this sum, my document shows the union officials, or whoever moved the money, acknowledge spending $172,671.90 on "administrative" costs. Someone must be getting paid construction-rate prevailing wages for sorting out the dollar bills. Who?

Well, the union protested that the government had no right to these records. What records? Well, the local's secretary-treasurer "does not have any records of the Voluntary, Political, Educational, Legislative, Charity and Defense Fund," according to the union's report to the government.Further, in the annual report, the local's officers were sufficiently candid tostate : "The Union's independent accountant has summarized the records of the Voluntary (etc.) Fund based upon information furnished without verification."

This union also is shot through (you can believe it literally) with lucrative nepotism -- sons of former officials and other close relatives have good jobs or pensions or high-priced autos as gifts.

This local, which is at the inner-gut of hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of construction, has a sordid record. Why then do Congressmen accept its contributions? Sen. Symington is an astronautics buff. He should come in from outer space and look at the record. Sen. Eagleton is on the Labor and Public Welfare Committee -- this means the public as well as labor.

The party's the thing. And political cash. The local's contribution ot "Friends of Lyndon Johnson" back in one campaign year was $25,000 at least.

Thus, there's a moral as well as a political accounting due here. But since the actual money total spent by the labor movement in this past election is the key point, the '72 contribution of this one local becomes significant in the controversy over whether labor has spent $5 million or $25 million or the now famed "$100 million." There is no way of totaling all union money spent. Not unless the contributions are computerized.

This isn't likely to develop. No one wants it. Political hunger is bipartisan. Actually, the supreme issue is not who gets the money, but what do they owe in return to such unions as the crime-and-bomb-rocked Local 562? And why don't they try to help it right itself by putting the national spotlight on a truly democratic election Dec. 14?

Then, at least, some of the public's welfare would be served.

He Is The Greatest

WASHINGTON -- Although this is Election Day, I can't seem to get the Muhammad Ali fight out of my mind. Suppose, just suppose, one of the candidates who wins today also was influenced by the fight.

"Senator, how does it feel to be the winner?"

"I am the greatest! I am the greatest senator of all time! Never again make me the underdog in an election race. I told you stupid reporters I'd take my opponent, but you wouldn't pay any attention. You said Whipplesneed was finished -- that I was too old, that all the fight had gone out of me. Well, you suckers just write that there has never been anyone like me in politics; I am so beautiful."

"When did you feel you had it won, Senator?"

"I (ital) always (unital) felt I had it won. Grimstark is a um. He didn't deserve to run against me. I shouldn't have even campaigned against him; he was so weak. He was nothing. Everry time he saw one of my TV commercials, his knees shook."

"But what was the strategy that tipped the election in your favor?"

"I just let Grimstark swing wildly at the issues till he got tired. When you're the greatest, you don't deal with issues. You just sit there and let the voters come to you. When you go up against afool like Grimstark, you just wait for an opening and pour it on. He was burned out a week before Election Day."

"Senator, the main subject in your fight with Grimstark seemed to be inflation. He attacked you on that."

"I wasn't afraid of Grimstark attacking me. I just ignored it and hit him where it hurt. I socked him with the fact that he had a mistress on his payroll in the state capitol. He had no defense against that. You tell everyone that Whipplesneed knows how to hit below the belt."

"Didn't you think the fact that Grimstark let you have it on the chin with your own tax returns would hurt you?"

"He never laid a glove on me with that one. I brushed it aside and gave him the old one-two about his being soft on communism. That really hurt him. Didn't you see him bleeding when I brought that one up from the floor?"

"Senator, this has been your fourth defense of your title. How does it compare with the other campaigns you've been in?"

"It was the easiest. I don't feel I've even been in a fight. Grimstark shouldn't go up against somebody as great as I am. He's not in my class."

"Now thatthe election is over, are you going to let bygones be bygones?"

"Are you crazy? I'm going to spend the next six years getting even with everyone who voted against me. They were stupid and I'm not going to let them forget it. People better pay attention to me now -- because I am sick and tired of them saying I am washed up."

"Now that you've beaten Grimstark, who would you like to take on next, Senator?"

"I'm after No. 1."

"You mean you want to run for President?"

"I think Mr. Ford would be afraid to run against me. He keeps talking about wanting to run for President in '76. But when he hears I want a shot at his title, he's going to be runningthe other way. You want to hear a poem I just wrote?"

"Sure, Senator."

"Gerry Ford, I'm out to getch ya.

"Next two years have lots of fun.

"But don't mess up MY Air Force One."

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: The Klassen Clam-Up

WASHINGTON - A new Postal Service, which was supposed to put the mails on a businesslike basis, was established on Jan. 1, 1972.

Today, mail service has declined; thousands of local post offices have been closed; twice-daily deliveries have been abandoned; Saturday service has been cut; carrier routes have been consolidated; and special services have been trimmed.

The new "managed mail" system has actually lengthened the delivery time in many areas. Indeed, the Postal Service has refused to deliver the mail to some new suburban developments. Every day brings more complaints of mail misdirected or lost. And postal morale is also at an all-time low.

Yet the price of mailing letters has rivaled the price of oil on the inflationary index, rising 67 per cent. This year's postal deficit, nevertheless, is $500 million, and another $500 million deficit is expected next year.

The Postal Service has asked Congress for still another $44 million to make up lost revenue, which the wage-price freeze caused by delaying a postal rate increase. The way things are going, the 25-cent stamp is only a few years away.

The man largely responsible for the postal problems, however, is determined to hang onto his job, come hell or high water. He is Elmer "Ted Klassen, the postmaster general, whose stewardship of the Postal Service has been a litany of management mistakes and personal pecadillos.

A gruff, towering man with a blunt charm, Klassen considers himself a fighter. He is determined to battle for his personal career, despite the adverse impact it will have on mail service.

In a series of columns, we have detailed how Klassen dealt out contracts to his friends, improved his lifestyle at public expense, padded the payroll with his cronies and accepted a fee from a postal contractor.

As a result, the FBI is investigating whether the fee constituted an illegal kickback and a congressional subcommittee is taking sworn testimony on some of the contracting boondogges.

Yet Klassen stubbornly refuses to step aside. The Postal Service today is much like the White House in the last days of Richard Nixon. The public business takes second place to defending the boss. Decisions are delayed and programs are postponed.

A fatalistic air stultifies postal headquarters. And insiders tell us that morale in the field has never been lower.

Klassen and his cohorts, meanwhile, deserve the Watergate award for the best coverup of the year. Two associates, for example,pressured a postal employe into clamming up before a scheduled FBI interview.

The two heavies told the employe, according to a notarized statement submitted to the FBI, that "the people up front were plenty sick and tired of all this adverse publicity, especially that being generated by disgruntled employes."

If he made any "dumb moves," the postal employe was warned, he would be "eased out of the postal service" and it would be made "virtually impossible" for him to land a comparable new job.

The postmaster general also pulled every wire he could lay his hands on to postpone the congressional hearings. He called representatives, senators, businessmen and labor leaders in an attempt to bring pressure on Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Calif., to call off or at least delay the hearings.

But the pressure backfired, and the tough Wilson proceeded to put many postal higherups and contractors under oath. He found that Klassen had been less than candid in his public denials of our stories.

The postmaster general struck back through the American Postal Workers Union, which got just about everything it requested at the last bargaining session with Klassen. The union boss, Francis Filbey, put out a poisonous press release calling the Wilson subcommittee members "jackals" and an unnamed columnist a "pygmy journalist."

While postal pay has gone up, it should be added, Klassen's cutbacks in the labor force have caused hardships. Many workers now have to put in long hours of overtime to move the mails.

Filbey told my associate Jack Cloherty that he did not, in Klassen's behalf, ask Rep. Wilson to delay the postal hearings. But we have been informed by unimpeachable sources that Filbey, indeed, did contact Wilson.

In the days of the Pony Express, it took four days to move a letter from coast to coast. Today, 100 years and $100 billion later, it often still takes four days. With new leadership and some structural changs, the Postal Service may eventually be able to outperform the Pony Express.

Footnote: Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., a personal friend of Klassen's, has asked him to resign. Other members of the House Postal Committee are preparing to join the call.

FOR A SERIOUS PURPOSE

NEW YORK (AP) — The comic book has joined the more serious text books of education to help developing readers.

"The Electric Company," television's contribution to easing education's reading crisis, has published "Spidey Super Stories," a new four-color comic starring the super-hero "Spider-Man" as an education device.

While not the first time the comics have been used as an educational tool, Spider-Man's adventures for the Electric Company are believed to be the first in which educational researchers have applied their knowledge

P'ville man held in shooting

PORTAGEVILLE-- A Portageville man, Leon Gribble, is in custody of the New Madrid County sheriff's department, and two others whose names were not disclosed, are being sought for questioning in connection with a shooting incident at 1:30 a.m. today in which shots were fired into the Russell Moore home on Big Dusty Road about four miles west of town.

Deputy Sheriff Willis "Bo" Wingo said it appeared two pistol shots had been fired from a car into the wall of the house. No injuries were reported and damage was minor, Wingo said.

Informal council session held

NEW MADRID-- Lacking a quorum for a regular meeting Monday night, Mayor Jim Cravens and Aldermen George Dawson, John A. Hunter and Bill Boyd met in an informal session and heard a complaint by Bobby Daniels, 708 Mitchell St., about being required to place his garbage at the front of his premises for pickup.

Daniels had refused to pay the charge for pickup service, as well as the light bill listed on the same bill, and his lights had been cut off.

Board members told him citywide trash pickups and the accompanying charge are required by state law and must be paid.

Daniels asked the board members about building an alley behind the dwellings on the west side of Mitchell Street behind the dwellings. The concensus of the members present was that the city had never constructed alleys and that the cost was prohibitive.

The council members agreed to call a special meeting Wednesday or Thursday for conducting regular business and to meet with a representative from the law firm of Blanton, Blanton and Rice and Sickal of Sikeston concerning the city's suit over the contract for purchase of power from Associated Electric Cooperative.

Merideth named to committee position

CARUTHERSVILLE — D. J. Merideth Jr., Route One, presiding judge of the Pemiscot County Court, late last week was named vice chairman of the recently organized Bootheel Resource, Conservation, and Development Committee. The committee is another arm of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission.

"This committee was in the process of being formed by the planning commission during the last six months and was finally organized last month," Merideth commented. "I think it's a fine organization."

He said the main purpose of the committee is to help acquire funds for recreation, drainage, park areas and other such resources in the Bootheel area.

In addition to Merideth, the committee elected two other officers at a meeting last week. Elmer Kinkade of Bernie was elected chairman, and K.M. Streeter of Scott County was named secretary - treasurer.

The committee acted on the bylaws and made a recommendation to the planning commission that the new committee's application be submitted to the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Washington.

Kincade stated at the meeting that the Bootheel Resource, Conservation and Development Committee will play a "vital role in improving the drainage, erosion and sedimentation problems in the Bootheel".

He stressed the importance of the committee to the Bootheel's agricultural- based economy. He pointed out that although each county may experience individual county drainage problems, only through joint county and bi-state cooperation can these problems be solved.

Kincade said all drainage districts, municipalities and counties will be eligible recipients of funds once the new committee receives notification of funding.

Stacy to be speaker

PORTAGEVILLE — Dr. Bill Stacy, an associate professor in the speech and education departments at Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau, will be the featured speaker Saturday at the annual Boy Scouts of America Seminole District recognition dinner.

The dinner is scheduled at 7 p.m. in the National Guard Armory.

The scouting theme this year is "Tomorrow can be better than today. It's up to us."

SeMo health agency celebrates state week

HAYTI — SeMo Regional Home Health Agency is among the state's 33 certified home health agencies celebrating Home Health Services Week this week, proclaimed for the first time this year by Gov. Christopher Bond.

Administrator William D. Pate announced that the SeMo Regional Home Health Agency will make every effort to acquaint residents of Southeast Missouri with the health services available to them in their own homes.

"We hope this week will serve as a means to educate the hundreds of people who could be receiving skilled nursing in their homes rather than being hospitalized or sent to nursing homes and senior citizen facilities," Pate said.

SeMo Regional Home Health Agency provides these services to any resident who is homebound and under a doctor's plan of treatment.

Sponsored by the Missouri Association of Home Health Agencies, this first Home Health Services Week honors both health centers and community-based agencies which provide and arrange for part-time nursing, home health aide and therapeutic services in patients' homes, help cut hospital stays and costs and make it possible for many chronically ill and recuperating citizens to maintain themselves and their homes.

The SeMo Regional Home Health Agency serves the six-county Bootheel area through county health departments. The six counties served by the agency are Scott, Stoddard, Mississippi, New Madrid, Dunklin and Pemiscot.

Civil defense meeting planned

BERNIE — Civil defense director Jerry Phelan informed the City Council Monday night of a civil defense meeting, scheduled at 2:30 p.m. Nov. 10 in Malden, to set up a sky-warning system and work out a plan to pool resources of neighboring civil defense units in emergency situations.

Mayor R. B. Woods told the council that the city has received a permit for the solid waste disposal system.

Woods further reported that Ronald Yersak of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission has been asked to fill out the necessary forms for updating Bernie's comprehensive plan. The plan will include goals the city hopes to accomplish in the future.

Gideon NFO sets meeting

GIDEON — The National Farmers Organization will hold a meeting at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday at Gideon High School.

All farmers interested in the production prices are asked to attend the meeting.

PREPAYMENT PENALTIES

You've sold your home. Your buyer obtained new financing with a new mortgage. Therefore, your old mortgage was, undoubtedly, paid in full with part of your proceeds from the sale. Paying off a mortgage in advancce of its original loan length is known in the trade as "prepayment".

Many lenders today require a prepayment penalty if a mortgage is paid off prior to its original due date, and you'll find this can amount to several hundred dollars.

If you paid this penalty, don't forget that the Internal Revenue Service treats the prepayment penalty the same as interest - which can be a valuable deduction from your income tax.

But, in spite of the tax break, always try to bargain for the smallest prepayment p enalty or no penalty at all.

Traveling Cabana

Bathing machines were used in the 18th and 19th centuries in England and France. The horse-drawn box on wheels was a bath-house for changing and was then driven into the water, away from the beach. Bathers stepped down or were lowered into the water. When they wished to return to the beach, they signalled with flags for the vehicle to "pick them up".

Tips on selecting thread provided

By JEWEL GRADY
Area Textiles & Clothing Specialist

Jewel Grady

BLOOMFIELD — Do you have problems selecting sewing thread; For many years mercerized cotton and silk were the only choices the home sewer had when selecting thread. These fibers used in thread, however, fulfilled the requirement, as the majority of fabriccs used then were natural fibers.

The development of synthetic or man-made fibers brought many new types of fabric and a variety of finishes. Compatible thread characteristics are required to properly stitch these new fabrics.

Today threads are made of a combination of fibers and techniques. Two popular threads are the spun polyester thread and polyester filament core wrapped with mercerized cotton and twisted into a strand of thread.

Tips on thread facts to keep in mind when selecting thread are:

--Select according to fabric weight and fiber.

For top stitching, silk button hole twist is primarily used. However, you may use two strands of polyester thread. Place two full bobbins on spool holder and thread both strands through a No. 14 or No. 16 needle. Use six to eight stitches per inch.

Early Warning Signs of a Heart Attack

Every year, over half a million Americans die of the nation's number one killer—heart disease. Many of these deaths were needless because the victims did not recognize the early warning signs of a heart attack and seek help in time. Minutes count when a heart attack occurs; unnecessary delay can be fatal.

What are the symptoms of a heart attack? The Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States says watch for the following danger signs:

- Temporary or prolonged heavy pressure or squeezing pain in the center of the chest.
- Chest pains that spread to the shoulder, arm, neck, or jaw.
- Sweating, nausea, vomiting or shortness of breath accompanying such chest pains.

Half the people who die from heart attacks apparently do not recognize these symptoms in time. They never reach a hospital.

So, even if you think your discomfort may be due to a stomach upset or similar problem, get to a doctor for a diagnosis. If your doctor is not available, go to a hospital emergency room at once. Hospital coronary care units have reduced the death rate of heart attacks by at least half.

Remember, your good health begins with you.

Ann Landers

Definition of man reprinted

Dear Ann Landers: I'm sending a column that I have saved since March 1962. As you can see, it is yellow with age, but it's such a good I wish you would rerun it. I'm sure your readers who remember it will be pleased to see it again. Thank you for all the pleasure you've given me.--Mrs. B. Willing, River Forest, Ill.

Dear Mrs. W: Here's your rerun. Thanks for making my Tuesday easier.

Dear Ann Landers: Your column is a study of Man. But what is Man? Here is my definition:

Man is what woman marries. Generally speaking, he has two hands and two feet. But he rarely has more than one dollar or one idea at a time.

Making a husband out of a man is one of the most intricate and challenging forms of plastic art known to civilization. This art requires a knowledge of science, sculpture, common sense, intuition, patience, faith, hope and charity.

It is a psychological phenomenon that a small, tender, soft, violet-scented creature like a woman should enjoy kissing a stubby-chinned, tobacco-and-bourbon scented thing like a man.

If you flatter a male, you frighten him to death. If you don's you bore him to death.

If he gets what he wants, he becomes uninterested--and it's the end. If he doesn't get what he wants, he becomes uninterested--and there's no beginning.

If you wear gay colors, eye makeup and startling hats he hesitates to take you out. If you wear tailored suits and a little brown beret he stares all evening at the woman in gay colors, eye makeup and the startling hat.

If you a clinging vine, incapable of making a decision, he considers you an idiot. If you are decisive and accomplished he considers you a machine.

If you are simple and uncomplicated he longs for a brainy woman with ideas. If you are a brainy woman with idea he suspects you are competing with him and eventually he dumps you in favor of a stupid playmate.

What is the solution to this puzzlement of human nature, this collage of quirks and contradictions? Who knows the answers? I don't. That's why I'm writing to Ann Augusta, Me.

Dear Augusta: Woman was not born to understand man. She was born to love him.

Dear Ann Landers: I'll make this short and to the point. My husband and I are having a tough time making it on his paycheck. I want to go back to work. I can get my old job back and it's work I enjoy. The money is excellent. I'd be working the 6:30 a.m. shift and my husband works from 4:00 p.m. to midnight. (He loves this shift and there is no way I could get him off of it. I've tried.) If I want to work I will have to pay the babysitter because he refuses to watch our two children. He says, "You wanted the kids. Now you can watch 'em. You don't have to work. If you want to go back to your old job then you can pay the sitter."

Ann, I am not asking him to clean or cook--just watch the kids till I get home. What's your advice?--Married to a Hard-Headed Dutchman

Dear Married to a H.H.D.: Before I answer your letter I want to make it plain to all my readers in Grand Rapids and Midland, Mich., and certain parts of Pennsylvania that You called him a Hard-Headed Dutchman-- I didn't.

Answer: He should watch the kids, not only to save money but so he can become acquainted with his children. It's painfully apparent that he has a poor relationship with them, and the new setup would alter this immeasurably.

Even if drinking is the "in" thing in your crowd, it needn't crowd youout. Learn the facts from Ann lander's booklet, Booze and You--For Agers Only." Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Michigan advances

By The Associated Press

Ohio State and Oklahoma continue to run 1-2 in The Associated Press college football rankings this week but Alabama pulled ahead of Michigan into third place while Texas A&M and Florida showed significant gains.

The Buckeyes of Ohio State received 49 first-place votes and 1,212 of a possible 1,240 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters following their eighth consecutive triumph, a 49-7 whipping of Illinois.

Meanwhile, 7-0 Oklahoma turned back Iowa State 28-10 and received 10 first-place ballots and 1,090 points. Ohio State's margin last week was 1,222-1,123.

Alabama put on an impressive performance in trouncing Mississippi State 35-0 and moved up from fourth to third, trading places with Michigan, which was hard-pressed to beat Indiana 21-7. Alabama received two first-place votes and 918 points while Michigan got the other first-place vote and 850 points.

Texas A&M, eighth the last three weeks, climbed to fifth by defeating Arkansas 20-10. Auburn, which had been fifth for three weeks, slipped to 10th following its first defeat of the year, a 25-14 loss to Florida which lifted the Gators from 11th to sixth.

Southern California, which had been sixth, skidded to 11th after being held to a 15-15 deadlock by California.

Penn State defeated Maryland, another ranking team, 24-17 and rose from 10th to seventh. The Nittany Lions edged ahead of Notre Dame's defending national champions, who dropped from seventh to eighth after a hard-fought 14-6 victory over Navy.

Nebraska, a 31-15 victor over Colorado, remained in ninth place, with Auburn rounding out the Top Ten.

Southern Cal headed the Second Ten, followed by Texas, Miami of Ohio, Maryland, Houston, Arizona State, Oklahoma State and California, with Pitt and Texas Tech tied for 19th. Despite its loss to Penn State, Maryland went from 15th to 14th. The Terrapins' three defeats have been at the hands of Top Ten teams.

Last week's Second Ten consisted of Florida, Texas, Texas Tech, Arizona State, Maryland, Miami, Mississippi State, UCLA and Temple with San Diego State and Wisconsin tied for 20th.

Unbeatens lead poll

By The Associated Press

There was some shuffling in the ranks of Missouri high school football ratings this week, but four teams with unblemished records remained as division leaders.

Nevada, unbeaten in its previous 19 games, dropped out of the Class 3A ratings with its 13-9 loss to Webb City, which moved from nowhere to 7th place.

A couple other winning streaks were extended in games over the weekend. Washington, the Class 3A leader, has a 25-game winning streak, while Houston, 3rd in the poll, has won 26 straight.

Ratings compiled by the Missouri State Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association:

Class 4A—Raytown South, St. Louis Southwest, St. Louis Ladue, Columbia Hickman, Kansas City Rockhurst, St. Louis McCluer North, Vianney, St. Louis Sumner, Kansas City Center and Joplin Parkwood.

Class 3A—Washington, Boonville, Houston, Kansas City Pius X

Class 1A—Rock Port, King City, Lathrop, Sweet Springs, Orrick, North Shelby, Drexel, Grain Valley, Tarkio and Lockwood.

Mizzou on TV

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri football game against No. 2-ranked Oklahoma will be broadcast nationally Saturday on the Mutual-Armed Forces radio network and televised on a delayed basis Sunday, an MU spokesman said.

the radio network normally presents the weekly Notre Dame game with the C. D. Chesley Network televising highlights of the Notre Dame contest early Sunday. However, the Irish have an open date this weekend.

Oklahoma, on probation by the National Collegiate Athletic Association, is barred from competing in live television coverage and on delayed basis of games involving the NCAA's contract with the American Broadcasting Company. The NCAA sanction does not affect games televised by the C. D. Chesley Network.

The Hawks controlled the boards and took a 15-8 first period lead and increased the lead in the second period outscoring the Wildcats 18-8 to take a 33-16 lead at the intermission.

Bloomfield used a full court press in the third period to cut the lead by outscoring the Hawks 16-14. Kelly was just too much for the smaller Wildcats to handle in the fourth period.

In the second game of the night the Puxico Indians jumped to a 29-7 halftime lead with the use of a running game and a full court press but Delta turned the game around in the second half with a press of their own and almost pulled the game out of the fire.

Delta outscored the Indians 18-8 in the third period and 19-12 in the fourth.

Morgan Sifford hit 14 for the Indians and Ronnie Bowers popped in 16 for the Bobcats. Bowers was scoreless in the first half.

OIL SPILLS FINGERPRINTED

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Dr. Michael Anbar, head of the Stanford University's Mass Spectrometer Research Center, claims to have come up with a method of connecting oil spills with the ships from which they probably came.

A sort of "oil fingerprinting," the key to the method is a machine called a field ionization mass spectrometer which can provide precise molecular weight profiles of oil spills, showing exact proportions in the goo.

NFL attendance down

By The Associated Press

The fans who packed National Football League stadiums in record numbers last year are staying away in ever-increasing numbers this time around.

More than 81,000 ticket-holders for NFL games last Sunday decided they had better things to do than use those ducats, producing the largest number of no-shows this season.

A variety of factors are responsible for the decrease in attendance, with an average drop around the league of about 4,000 fans per game from last year's record average of 58,961. And decreased attendance also means loss of potential revenue from parking and concessions.

One major factor apparently was the strike called by the NFL Players Association. With veterans manning the picket lines and rookies and free agents taking their places on the playing fields, the average attendance at 78 preseason games was 36,653, down about 18,000 or 33 per cent, according to NFL figures. NFL owners claimed a cumulative $12 million in losses during the preseason, and the losses — although not as large, significant nonetheless — have continued into the regular season.

Also cutting into NFL attendance was the presence of the World Football League, which has considerable problems of its own but which does offer fans an alternative to the established NFL. The new league was aided in its early days by the NFLPA strike.

The general downturn in the econoy also has its impact. Some past season-ticket holders decided not to renew for this season, while others have decided not to shell out the ticket prices at the gate.

Television is yet another major factor. The blackout policy instituted last year permits local televising of games which are sold out 72 hours in advance, but also permits networks to substitue a game of significant interest for a soldout local contest which is not considered a prime attraction. Many fans would apparently rather watch a telecast of a game between two contenders than go out to the stadium to watch their home team meet a weak opponent.

Sunday's high number of noshows was partially due to harsh weather conditions, which kept some 22,000 away from Chicago's Soldier Field for the Bears' game against the Minnesota Vikings and 11,000 away from Arrowhead Stadium in Kansas City, where the Chiefs met the New York Giants.

But the weather was fine in Miami, and 12,000 ticket holders stayed home rather than watch the Dolphins clobber the Atlanta Falcons 42-7.

Metcalf doubtful

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals say star running back Terry Metcalf may miss next Monday night's televised National Football League game against the Minnesota Vikings at Busch Stadium because of a knee injury.

But, the club said Monday, damaged ligaments the 5-foot-10, 185-pound Metcalf suffered in a 17-14 Sunday loss to the Dallas Cowboys will not necessitate surgery.

The nimble Metcalf, the NFL's leading all-purpose back, was injured when ganged by three Dallas tacklers in the first half at Texas Stadium.

While his injury mends, Dr. James Elsasser said, Metcalf's status for the Minnesota game will probably be listed as "doubtful" on a day to day basis.

Other Cardinals nursing lesser injuries are tackle Ernie McMillan and guard Bob Young of the offensive line and running backs Jim Otis and Donny Anderson.

States and provinces in the Mississippi Flyway have been trying to raise the population of Canada geese that winter in Missouri to over 200,000 birds. Intensive study on the birds all the way from the Canadian tundra to Missouri, plus cooperation from hunters has helped the states set seasons which have raised the flock to near that population level.

Luis Tiant of the Boston Red Sox has put together two straight 20-win campaigns. In 1968 he won 21 games for Cleveland.

Both Minnesota and Atlanta gave up on pitcher Luis Tiant in 1971. Both teams gave him an unconditional release.

Second baseman Felix Millan of the New York Mets broke in with Daytona Beach, Fla., in 1964 and hit .291.

Pitcher Pat Dobson of the New York Yankees won 20 games for the 1971 Baltimore Orioles. He broke in with Detroit in 1967.

Investment pays off

How would you like the task of getting the cooperation of more than 100,000 birds, thousands of people and the weather on a long-range project?

That's what faced Mississippi Flyway waterfowl biologists six years ago when they decided to try to increase the eastern prairie flock of Canada geese to 200,000 post-season birds.

If all goes well, the goal will be reached next spring when the birds head north to the Hudson's Bay tundra for another nesting season. It hasn't been easy.

Because of increased hunting pressure down the flyway, the biologists felt it was important to build the flock so there would be a good production base for each nesting season.

"We had an almost immediate setback in 1969," says Ken Babcock, water-fowl biologist for the Department of Conservation.

"A big snowstorm caused a nesting bust and that threw a monkey wrench in the whole plan.

"Geese are different than other creatures -- there is no assured annual increment to harvest. The birds don't mate until their third year, so after a nesting failure it takes three years to get back into production."

Missouri hunters, whose cooperation was vital, calmly accepted a cut in the Swan Lake zone quota from 25,000 in 1968 to a low of 14,000 in 1971 and 1972. Last year, the quota crept up to 17,500 as the flock continued to grow.

This year, it will be 20,000. Through the lean years, the hunters have been patient and understanding.

"It's not just what has been done in Missouri," Babcock says. "Iowa and Minnesota both made sacrifices. Minnesota went from a 70-day season with two bird limit to nine days and one bird."

Babcock estimates that, assuming the 1974 hatching season was average (and from what he found on his annual trip to the tundra, he doesn't expect more than an average production), the pre-season flock will be from 275,000 to 280,000.

He found nesting was anywhere from 10 days to two weeks late because of cold weather in the north country. "Previous studies show that when we have a late season, clutch size and productivity decline," he says.

"But we have an ace in the hole in that there was a nice increase in the number of nestingfemales, so even with depressed hatch per female, we think the production will be good.

"We'll have years of low productivity and setbacks in the eastern prairie flock," he says. "We'll have to tighten our belts again when that happens.

"But with the 200,000 post-season flock, we feel we can change regulations to suit the conditions and provide the best possible season each year."

This is the third year of a study to isolate the breeding grounds of the flock in order to accurately predict the hatch early enough too be confident about the annual goose hunting regulations.

Hunters and birds have cooperated beautifully for six years. Now if they can just get the weather squared away ...

QUICK THINKING HELPS POLICE

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP) — A newsboy who knows how to take quick notes has been credited with helping police arrest two women and three men accused in connection with a string of 20 thefts in western Massachusetts.

Police say the unidentified newsboy — who works for the Berkshire Eagle here — spotted a burglary and quickly jotted down the license number of the getaway car. It didn't matter that he was not carrying a notepad — the youth scribbled the number on his forearm.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Reports on expansion and on progress in selecting a new commissioner are on the agenda for the fall meeting Thursday of the National Basketball Association's Board of Governors.

The board also is scheduled to take up the Jan. 14 All- Star Game at Phoenix and the 1975 playoffs.

The session will be the board's first meeting in Cleveland since the Ca aliers joined the NBA four years ago.

NEW HAVEN — Trying to guess what the meat course in most families will be on a given night is chancy, but where the Hale family is concerned, the odds are good that it will be venison.

George (Bud) Hale Jr. of New Haven has been after a deer with a bow and arrow for several years and has suffered every jinx known to bowhunters.

But he finally broke the string of bad luck with a 125-pound doe on opening day. Five days later his son, Alan, took a 108-pound doe, the fourth deer of his bowhunting career. A week after that, on October 13, yet another son, Ronnie, took a doe.

The season probably is not over for the Hale family. There are two other boys, Dennis and Darryl, who are bowhunters and who still are hunting.

Mrs. George Hale used to bowhunt, but isn't this year. Bowhuunting is a family tradition -- George's brother Donald, once hit a dove on the wing with an arrow.

Through the third week of October, bow hunters had taken 648 deer, compared to 559 through the same period last year.

Johnson County led with 36 deer, including 24 taken during the annual Knob Noster State Park bowhunt. Of the counties where special hunts were not involved, Gasconade had 24, St. Charles 23 and Knox 18. Taney County, which hosted a special hunt at Drury Refuge, had 23.

Band, chorus plan concert

MATTHEWS — The high school and junior high school band and chorus will present their fall concert today in the high school gymnasium at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited.

Rats have been known to gnaw through water pipes.

ST. LOUIS (-0)--Missourians were casting ballots today on whether to send Democrat Thomas F. Eagleton back to the U. S. Senate for another six-year term, or to replace him with Republican Thomas B. Curtis.

In addition to settling the rematch between Curtis and Eagleton, Missouri voters will select a state auditor, 180 state legislators, 10 congressmen, hundreds of local candidates, and will decide the fate of two constitutional amendments and a proposed campaign financing law.

Curtis, who has promised to end inflation, lost to Eagleton by a little less than 37,000 votes in 1968 after serving 18 years in the U. S. House. Curtis, 63, a lawyer from Clayton, has been out of office for four years.

A Turnout of 1,160,000, or 53 per cent of the registered voters, was predicted by Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick. More than 1,280,000 voted in the 1970 non-presidential elections. The polls opened at 6 a. m. And will close at 7 p. m.

The state has 4,688 precincts.

Curtis challenged Eagleton after Republican Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth decided not to run. Danforth and Republican Gov. Christopher S. Bond have campaigned for Curtis, but the biggest GOP push has been for Republican John Ashcroft, 32, trying to hang onto the auditor's job he was appointed to by Bond.

The Republicans need the auditor's post to build support for the 1976 elections. The Democrats, on the other hand, hope to balance the state elective offices at three Republicans and three Democrats with a victory by George Lehr, 37-year-old chief executive of Jackson County.

There have been few hot issues in the auditor's race. Both men say the other could do a good job.

The auditor's race is considered a tossup. Lehr's chances will be enhanced by a wide victory margin by Eagleton, if it happens. Eagleton is considered to be leading Curtis.

Today, Eagleton planned to relax in the St. Louis area. Curtis planned to vote in Clayton and then was to visit St. Louis city and county polling places. Lehr campaigned with Eagleton Monday and headed back to Kansas City. He will watch the returns at the Continental Hotel in Kansas City.

Ashcroft will observe the returns at Jefferson City's Ramada Inn after voting in Willard, where he owns a home. Eagleton and Curtis will sit out election night in Clayton, Eagleton at the Colony Hotel and Curtis at his apartment.

The campaign financing law, which will require candidates to disclose all contributions of $25 or more, got on the ballot via a frenzied, five-week petition effort when the legislature failed to pass a law.

It was expected to pass easily, but opposition from labor leaders, rural community leaders and the secretary of state and State Sen. Albert Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau, have lessened its chances.

The main objection of the opposition is a requirement that candidates list soources of income or gifts, by name, that total $100 or more in the previous year.

One constitutional amendment brings the State Constitution into compliance with federal law on the 18-year-old vote and 30-day residency requirement.

The second constitutional amendment will allows counties and Kansas City and the city of of St. Louis to sell general obligation bonds by a two-thirds voter approval. The bonds would be used for industrial development.

A second part of the proposal allows cities to sell revenue bonds for financing of city owned utilities, airports or industrial development by a majority vote of the people, rather than a four-sevenths majority.

Common Cause, a citizens' lobbying group headquartered in Washington, recently reported that Eagleton had received over $600,000 in contributions for his campaign, compared with $230,000 for Curtis. Eagleton has received $286,000 this year and the rest came in 1973.

Members of Eagleton's campaign staff say he will spend $550,000 on the campaign. A member of Curtis' staff says the Republican will spend $300,000.

In the auditor's race, Ashcroft's people say he will spend $160,000 to $170,000, and Lehr is expected to spend from $200,000 to $250,000, counting the primary campaign.

The closest of the 10 U. S. House races is expected to be between Republican incumbent Gene Taylor and Democrat Richard Franks in the 7th District.

Democrats feel they have a good chance to unseat Taylor, who received campaign help during the weekend in a six-county tour by Curtis and state GOP leaders. Taylor is the state's only Republican in Congress.

In the 6th District of northwest Missouri, incumbent Jerry Litton is opposed by Gladstone insurance agent Grover H. Speers, a Republican. In the 8th, Richard Ichord, first elected to Congress in 1960, is opposed by State Sen. James A. Noland, a Republican from Osage Beach. In the 9th of Northeast Missouri, Republican Milton J. Bischof, a St. Louis County councilman, is challenging incumbent William Hungate of Troy.

Bill Burlison, incumbent in the 10th District of Southeast Missouri, expects to beat Republican Truman Farrow of Jackson. On the west side of the state, William Randall of Independence and Richard Bolling of Kansas City, both incumbents, are opposed by Claude Patterson of Appleton City and John McDonough of Kansas City, respectively.

Republican Jo Ann Raisch of Affton, wife of a state legislator, seeks to oust incumbent Leonor Sullivan of St. Louis. In the 2nd District, incumbent James Symington is opposed by Republican Howard C. Ohlendorf, and in the first, Republican Arthur O. Martin is running against incumbent William Clay.

Independent candidates are Clifford E. Talmage of Ballwin in the U. S. Senate race, Marie S. Nowak vs. Mrs. Sullivan and Mrs. Raisch, and Edward Verburg of Kansas City in the 5th District House race.

Pie Traynor was voted into the Baseball Hall of Fame in 1948.

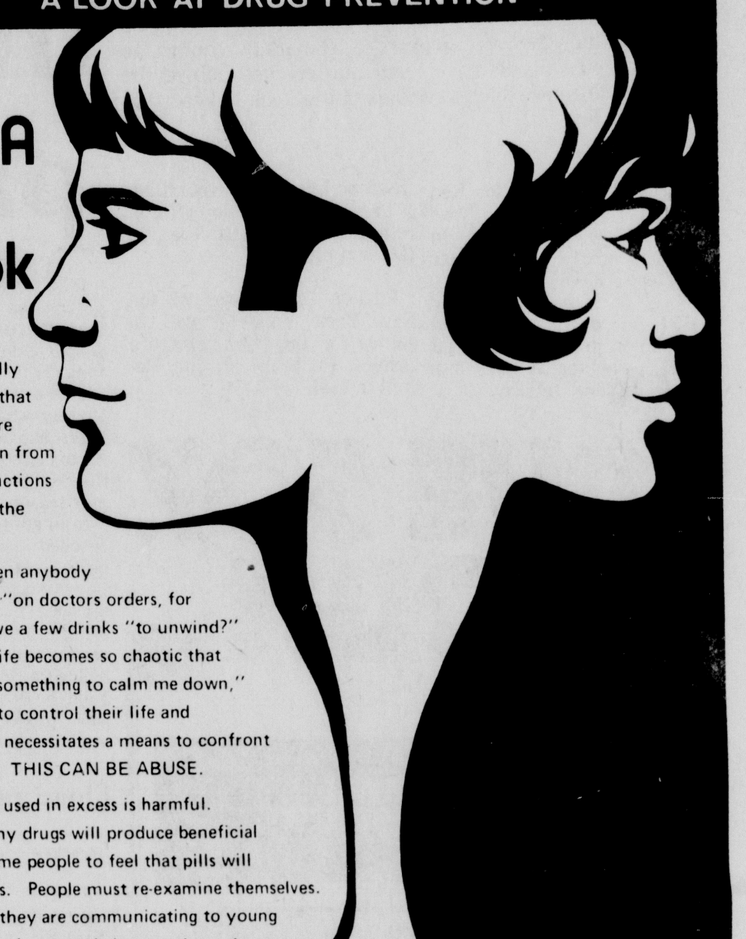
PERSPECTIVES-
A LOOK AT DRUG PREVENTION



Take A Hard Look

It is a generally accepted premise that children learn more from example than from all the good instructions and intentions in the world.

Have you seen anybody take tranquilizers "on doctors orders, for my nerves" or have a few drinks "to unwind?" When a person's life becomes so chaotic that they must have "something to calm me down," it is the inability to control their life and environment that necessitates a means to confront day to day living. THIS CAN BE ABUSE.

Any drug used in excess is harmful. The fact that many drugs will produce beneficial results has led some people to feel that pills will solve all problems. People must re-examine themselves. They might find they are communicating to young people their unspoken permission to misuse drugs.

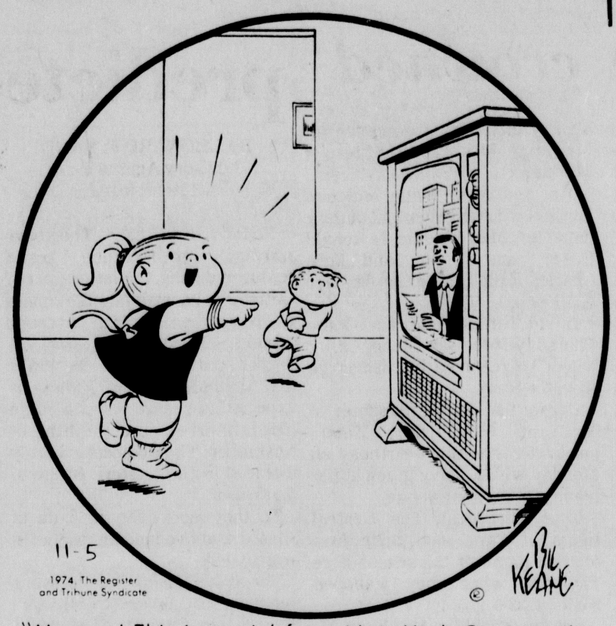
OUR BOARDING HOUSE — with Major Hoople

THE FAMILY CIRCUS — By Bil Keane



"Mommy! This is comin' from New York City! Maybe we'll see Daddy!"

Today in U. S. History

Today is Tuesday, Nov. 5, election day. It is the 309th day of 1974 and there are 56 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1940, President Franklin Roosevelt was elected to an unprecedented third term.

On this date —

In 1605, Guy Fawkes, a conspirator, was seized as he was about to blow up the British House of Lords.

In 1872, Susan B. Anthony, the women's suffragist, voted for Ulysses Grant for President. Women did not have the vote and she was fined $100 for illegal voting.

In 1912, Woodrow Wilson was elected President.

In 1940, election returns were televised for the first time.

In 1946, a new career in politics began as John Kennedy was elected to the U.S. House of Representative at the age of 29.

Ten years ago: A U.S. space probe, Mariner Three, was launched toward Mars, but failed due to a malfunction.

Five years ago: Anti-war demonstrators were driven away from a research laboratory at Massachusetts Institute of Technology by several hundred policemen.

One year ago: Dirty trickster Donald Segretti was sentenced to six months in prison.

Today's birthdays: Philosopher and historian Will Durant is 89 years old. Former cowboy star Roy Rogers is 62.

Thought for today: When anger rises, think of the consequences — Confucius.

Dr. Lamb

You can cook without eggs

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband cannot eat eggs. Is there any way I can fix cakes, rolls and desserts for him without using eggs?

DEAR READER — Yes. You would be surprised how many recipes turn out just fine by leaving the egg out entirely. Pancakes are a good example. Use your favorite recipe but leave the egg out entirely, and you will still have good cakes. The same goes for rolls and breads.

Do some experimenting with standard recipes, and you will soon spot all kinds of ways you can provide breads and desserts without causing your husband any problem.

I would recommend one of the new low-fat, low-cholesterol egg preparations, but I am afraid your husband may have a problem that would not tolerate these if his problem is something more than just wanting to reduce the cholesterol and fat intake in the diet.

Incidentally, I have a large number of recipes that contain no eggs at all in my book, "What You Need to Know About Food and Cooking for Health" (Viking Press). Ask your local library for the book.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband has just returned home from the hospital. He had an operation for kidney stones and had to have his left kidney removed. He is 38 years old.

The doctor tells us not to worry because you only need one healthy kidney to function normally. But, I want to know all I can about how I can help my husband keep his kidney healthy and not to get any more stones. Can you give me a few suggestions?

DEAR READER — There is just one practical suggestion that applies to what you and your husband can do. Regardless of the type of stone, or its cause, he should be certain to drink at least four quarts of liquid a day. This should be spread out over the 24 hours. The purpose of the fluid is to be sure he passes lots of urine each day. The larger volume will help to dilute the relatively insoluble salts that are part of the stone formation.

If he perspires a lot or is exposed to heat, that might not be enough. In that case he will need to increase his fluid intake even more.

Although special diets are sometimes used in testing patients with renal stones, most authorities agree there is no need to restrict dairy products to try to avoid stones.

There are different types of stones. Some are more likely to form if the urine is too acid and others if the urine is too alkaline. If your doctor knows the type of stones formed, he may want to try medicines that are sometimes used with varying success to prevent new stone formation. He may not think that is necessary in your husband's case.

Anyone who has a stone needs chemical tests to see if there is an abnormality in calcium metabolism, controlled by the little parathyroid glands on each side of the thyroid.

Kidney infections sometimes contribute to the formation of a stone. It is important to treat any sign of a kidney infection promptly.

All of these measures, except drinking the fluids, are up to your doctor, but drinking adequate fluids is one thing you can do, and it is important regardless of which kind of stone is formed.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on cholesterol, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for the "Cholesterol" booklet.

What's the law?

The case of the guzzling juror

By: JACK STRAUSS,LL.B.

Benny was the proprietor of a greasy spoon restaurant where his customers jumped almost as much as his food. Viewing the high jinks of Benny's customers with a juandiced eye, the local gendarms staked out the restaurant and' finally' arrented Benny on charges of selling intoxicating beverages to his customers without a license.

The heavy finger of Benny's guilt were three unopened bottles of beer that were found on his premises.

In due course, a trial was held and Benny was found guilty as charged. But, in clearing out the jury room, a court attendant happened to notice that the three "unopened" bottles of beer, which has been sent into the jury during their deliberation, along with other evidence, were enpty.

Upon being informed of this fact, Benny's cagy lawyer immediately demanded a new trial.

"The jury drank the evidence," he complained loudly to the judge."

"So what?" responded the district attorney. "The crime was in selling the beer and not in drinking it. Since Benny was convicted fair and square, he's not entutled to a new trial."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you grant Benny a new trial because the jurors guzzled down the evidence?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that if the jury drank the contents of the bottles in order to test their qualities as an intoxicant, they violated the law since jurors are not permitted to experiment with the evidence. And, concluded the judge, if they drank it in the spirit of bravado, their conduct was prejudicial to the man they were trying.

Prayer for today

"Look,...there is the Lamb of God; it is he who takes away the sin of the world." (John 1:29 NEB)

PRAYER: Help us, dear God, to remember Thy Son is the light of the world, and we have no need to stay in the dark of our own despair. In joy and appreciation we humbly pray as He taught us: "Our Father who art in heaven,. Give us this day hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdon come, thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver usfrom from evil. For thine is the kingdom and the power, and the glory for every. Amen.

Below median rainfall predicted for November

By LEONARD F. HAND
Advisory Agricultural Meteorologist

PORTAGEVILLE — The above normal temperature trend featured during the latter part of October is carried into the month of November by the average monthly weather outlook. A narrow corridor along the lower and mid-Mississippi Valley is expected to record below median rainfall over the month of November. The Bootheel is barely included in the western fringe of that region.

To the west, over the bulk of Missouri, above median rainfall is anticipated.

The above normal temperature anomaly is carried well northward into Canada. This would indicate a continuing cutoff of the cold flow that brought the early October freeze to Southeast Missouri. Bear in mind that normal temperatures this time of year are on the decline and that above normal averages could still be comprised of several chilly periods interspersed with he warm spells.

Normal daily maximums range from 64 degrees early in November to a 52 to 54-degree range the lasts week in the month. Over that period, minimums show a decrease from about 42 to near 32 in a climatologically normal mnoth.

Gulf moisture remains in the precipitation picture for November Disturbances in the Rockies and Plains are likely to account for heavier than median totals in those regions, expected distribution would indicate that cold fronts will probably deliver several periods of wetting to the Mid-South Region.

Again, heavier precipitation appears to be associated with disturbances forming on the southern edge of these fronts, or from independent systems developing in the southeastern quadrant of the nation. These are areas to watch for rains of particular significance to the Bootheel harvest schedule.

Several weeks of field work remain for a number of farmers. Much of this is sensitive to wet periods, and distribution of shower patterns is often as important as the volume of rain that falls this time of year. Warmer than normal temperatures, plus the supply of moisture already delivered in late October, assure a good start for small grains. Drying power of mild air is not as potent as in the cold flow featured in October.

Cotton pickers and combines may have to accomodate to a shorter harvest day, depending upon how wetting periods are spaced. The extent of land preparation possible following harvest is still, a speculative proposition, but lighter than normal rainfall is the better of the categories available.

In cleared fields, however, evaporation will be the only mechanism operating to return excess water back to he atmosphere. By the end of October, daily rates of evaporation pan loss had diminished to near .12 to .16 inch. That was under better conditions. Cloudy and rainy days cut that to .04 to .06 inch.

Median rainfall for November over the Bootheel as a whole is about 3.25 inches. Climatological normal for the same period is 3.85 inches.

First step taken on RR signal

DEXTER - The first step toward installation of a flashing signal at the railroad crossing on One Mile Road was taken Monday night when the Board of Aldermen granted authority to Mayor Willis Conner and City Attorney Paul McGhee to pursue and to file a complaint with the Missouri Public Service Commission, if necessary.

The action was taken following the latest accident at the crossing. Approximately 2,400 vehicles cross the tracks daily, and the crossing has been the scene of numerous accidents

Conner has repeatedly stated that the crossing is dangerous and that he can see no reason why the railroad should not be required to install a flashing signal, and he said the city will make every legal effort to have a signal installed.

The board accepted a bid of $4,995 from City Motor Sales for a new truck. The bid includes trade-in of a 1967 model, with the company to refund the excise tax. The only other bid received was from Medler-Davis Chevrolet in the amount of $5,398.85.

A total of $12,600 was the figure submitted to the board following an appraisal of damage to two pieces of property located on Arvin Road. Condemnation proceedings were brought against the property when the owners refused to grant the city an easement for construction purposes after being offered what the city considered a fair price.

According to McGhee, the $12,600 will be paid to the court, so the road can be completed. It will then be up to a jury to decide if the amount will be more or less.

In other action, the board passed ordinances to erect stop signs at the intersections of Arvin and One Mile roads and Fram and Arvin roads and to erect a yield sign at the corner of Arvin Road and Cooper Street.

The street department was asked to erect a no parking sign in the alley, south of Stoddard Street and between Locust and Walnut streets, after it was discovered that parking citations were being issued but no sign had been erected. An ordinance was passed recently to bar parking in the alley.

The board voted to rescind an ordinance which called for the paving of one block of Poplar, Hickory, Locust and Elm streets. The paving will be done at a later date.

Conner expressed his appreciation to the auxilitary police after a representative of the police department reported auxiliary policemen had worked 107 hours between Oct. 15 and Oct. 31 at no expense to the city.

Conner told board members that the latest report on the health of City Clerk George McCracken was that his condition is worse. McCracken suffered a stroke in September and has never regained consciousness.

Disbursements in October totaled $309,749.14.

"After 20 years of affluence, there is not much apparent readiness for acts of solidarity with a troubled world," said the panel, called the Rome Forum.

"We do not believe that either the 'old rich' of the industrialized world or the 'new rich' within OPEC (the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries) could live in peace and self-respect in a planet moving towards recurrent famine. Nor could they survive the rising violence of disorganization, disease and despair."

The 11-day conference, which drew delegates from more than 100 nations, was proposed by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger at the United Nations General Assembly last fall. Kissinger arrived Monday night to speak at the opening session before hurrying on to the Middle East for a new attempt at getting Arab-Israeli peace negotiations going.

After three days of anti-American bombings, more than 1,000 soldiers and riot police were assigned to protect Kissinger and the other arriving delegates. The Italian Communist party called a big anti-American rally in the Piazza del Popolo, Rome's biggest downtown square about 10 miles from the conference site.

The conference is sponsored by the United Nations and has two goals: to plan immediate emergency measures to meet the current threat of widespread famine in Asia and Africa, and to plan long-range programs to end the threat of food shortages in the future.

The United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) recommended three main measures for consideration:

—Increase food production in the developing countries at least 35 per cent by 1985. FAO said this would require an annual investment of $5 billion.

—Make the distribution of existing foods more equitable.

—Establish international food reserves as insurance against famine due to crop failures and other disasters. The stocks would be strategically located and controlled by an international body.

Members of this group included British economist Barbara Ward, former U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman and Nobel Peace Prize winner Norman Borlaug, the author of the so-called green revolution.

Mrs. Moore asked the city to put up $1,500 as a sponsor of the Bill Bard Marionette Theatre Nov. 14-16. The show is being partially sponsored by the National Endowment of the Arts and the state arts council.

The city council declined to sponsor the program, saying it could not give money to a private organization. If the arts councils is created at a later date, the council said such programs could be sponsored by the city at that time.

The marionette theater will be in the city, with or without city financing, and will consist of performances and teacher workshops.

POLICE RADIO

The city accepted a grant of $13,263 from the Bootheel Law Enforcement Council to purchase a communications console for the police department.

The city will put up $1,473, or 10 per cent of the total cost of $14,730.

The console will be purchased from Motorola, the only company to submit a bid to the city.

The console will include a new base station and burglar alarm system, a tape recorder for recording all conversations and a panel which will show the status of all police cars in the city.

GRAVEL BIDS

The council accepted a low bid for $37,143 from Reece Trucking of Hayti for all gravel work at the new recreation complex. The work will be completed in 30 days.

Four other bids were received, including Ruhl Trucking, $64,070; W. S. McMullin, $49,123; A. James Excavating, $42,337; and Potashnick-Springs, Inc., $70,917

SHELTERED WORKSHOP

The council accepted a legal opinion by Drumm that it could not donate two acres of city land to the Community Sheltered Workshop as a site for a new building.

Drumm said the workshop is a federral agency, not a city organization, and the council cannot donate the land.

LIQUOR LICENSES

The Holiday Inn has returned its package liquor license to the city, but council refused to reissue it to anyone after discovering the city had been allowing one more license than permissible by ordinance.

The mixup came prior to the last census when a preliminary census showed a larger population figure than the final census. The license was issued on the preliminary census figure.

The council asked Church and Drumm to review the city's policy on the number of licenses issued per 1,000 people and may change the ordinance at a later date.

Drumm said that when he checked with other cities in the past, he found the amount of liquor consumption remained the same, regardless of the number of liquor stores.

Church said restrictions on the number of stores are necessary to prevent marginal operations which often yield to the temptation to violate liquor laws to sell more liquor.

Beer licenses were approved for Mary A. Pace, 839 W. Malone Ave.; Shirley Keegan, 1201 E. Malone Ave.; Liberty Supermarket; 142 N. Ranney St.; and Quick Sak, 1801 E. Malone Ave.

The council tabled requests for package liquor licenses by Elmer Oliver, Larry Lindsey, Jerry Helmes and Dearmont Oliver. Also tabled was a request by Louise Newton to have the beer license at Red's Tavern, 109 W. Malone Ave., listed in her name.

POLICE CAR

Sonny Presley Chevrolet submitted the low bid of $3,600 for a new police car for the detectives.

Other bids included Goza-Harper Motor Co., $3,699, and Sikeston Motor Co., $3,779. Bids were about $300 lower than previous bids which had been rejected because of irregularities in the bids submitted.

OTHER BUSINESS

T

The council approved the paving of Adams Street from the west side of Jaycee Street to the East side of Kiwanis Street.

Maurice Hixon, superintendent of the city steam plant, and City Clerk John Vaughn were approved to attend the annual meeting of the Missouri Local Government employes Retirement System, scheduled Nov. 19 and 20 in Jefferson City.

City receives bonding program

The city Monday received its bonding program for the proposed issue of $2 million in general obligation and industrial revenue bonds to be issued for Triangle Industries.

In other matters coming before the City Council at Monday night's meeting, the council was told it would be required by federal law to adopt flood plain zoning or be ineligible for any federal funds, grants or home loans; asked for an assessment on land the city needs for the extension of the airport runway; approved a $2.91 per household monthly fee for removal of municipal solid waste; and accepted a grant for the purchase of a new radio console for the police department.

TRIANGLE BONDS

The city will ask voters early in December to approve a $2 million bond issue to finance locating of a Triangle Conduit and CableCo. plant in the building formerly occupied by Anchor Toy Corp.

The bond issues will include $750,000 in general obligation bonds, for purchase and renovation of the building, and $1.2 million in industrial revenue bonds, for purchase of equipment and machinery.

City Attorney Manuel Drumm told the council that Triangle will take the building on a 20-year lease, under which the lease payments equal the bond payments. If the bond payments rise or fall, he said, the lease does likewise.

"The basic thing about this lease is it doesn't cost you any money," Drumm said.

Triangle will pay the lease, by paying the money to a disbursing agent, who, in turn, pays the bond holder. The city will never touch the money, Drumm said.

If Triangle should default on its part of the agreement, the city could take possession of the building and fixtures and resell them.

Triangle will begin operation in January 1975 if the bond issue is approved. The firm will employ 125 people with an annual payroll of $750,000. It is estimated that additional jobs for 100 truck drivers will be created to haul the finished product to market. Triangle will not employ the drivers, as all trucking will be done by private carriers.

The Sikeston plant will draw wire from copper billets, with other operations consisting of stranding, coating with plastic insulation material, assembly of hardware and distribution of a 14-state area.

FLOOD ZONING

City Manager Charles Church told the council the city has been told by the Department of Housing and Urban Development that it has 90 days to adopt flood plain zoning and building regulations as part of the federally sponsored flood insurance program.

Previously, participation in the program was voluntary, but Church said he has been told by HUD officials that if Sikeston does not participate, it will lose all fedearlly subsidized loans and grants, including Federal Housing Authority and Veterans Administration home loans.

Church said a representative from HUD would be in Sikeston Nov. 19 to discuss the flood plain program with city officials. He said the representative will be taken around the city and shown what a large burden the federal program will place on the city.

AIRPORT EXTENSION

The council turned down a plan to trade property with landowner Burt Rowe to obtain property for the extension of the airport runway 500 feet to the north.

The swap, worked out by the Airport Advisory Board, would have traded 26.2 acres of Rowe's land north of the runway for 26.2 acres of city-owned land between the new recreation complex and the rodeo grounds.

The council instead asked that the land be appraised and indicated it would be interested in a dollar value gtrade or condemnation. Councilmen believe the city land is more valuable than Rowe's land.

A representative of the Airport Advisory Board told the council that the land is necessary if the airport is ever to expand. The Rowe property is being considered for a subdivision, he said. If the 26.2 acres are subdivided, he said the airport would be locked in and expansion would be much more expensive.

GARBAGE FEE

The council approved a monthly solid waste removal fee of $2.91 per household. The fee will be included on the light and water bill.

The fee includes $2.75 for the hauler, 15.5 cents for billing costs and one-half cent to cover delinquent payments.

If the delinquent bills are not paid, the ordinance gives the city the power to cut off the customers's utilities.

ARTS COUNCIL

The question of an arts council forthe city was raised by Mrs. Dorothy Moore, a member of the Missouri Council of Arts. She asked the council to consider creating a council similar to those in Cape Girardeau and Stoddard County.

U.S. asks others to help feed the world's hungry

ROME (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger today proposed that the world's major food producers coordinate their grain reserves so that "within a decade no child will go to bed hungry ..., no family will fear for its next day's bread."

Delivering the main opening-day address at the World Food Conference, Kissinger called the aim of the proposed system of reserves a bold objective that would cope with the source of hunger.

Kissinger also urged newly rich oil producing states to help poor countries buy food, fertilizer and farm equipment. Quadrupled prices for crude oil over the last year have produced a surplus of around $60 billion in the oil states and have forced hard times on developing countries that have to decide whether to buy oil or food with scant foreign exchange reserves.

The grain supply deficit in developing countries will reach about 85 million tons by 1985, Kissinger said. Financing them to increase production "must become one of the priority objectives of the countries and institutions that have the major influence in the international monetary system," he said.

In Manila, David Rockefeller, chairman of The Chase Manhattan Bank, told a news conference failure of the oil producers to share their wealth could lead the world into depression.

The Rome food conference, sponsored by the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, opened with an appeal from U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim for an "equitable global strategy" to ward off mass starvation.

Like an international panel of economists and food experts whose report was issued on the eve of the conference, Waldheim said the rich nations consume too much and the poor aren't doing enough to help themselves.

A senior American official said the Soviet bloc countries except Romania are unlikely to approve the U.S. proposals, but he expects endorsement from most other nations.

The grain reserves coordination system Kissinger proposed for the United States and other food producers appeared to conflict somewhat with U.S. Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz' statement Monday that international control of stockpiles would be inefficient.

Kissinger asked the conference to organize a Reserve Coordinating Group to negotiate a detailed agreement for an international system of grain reserves at the earliest possible time.

The food producing nations would exchange information on reserve levels, crop prospects and their plans for importing or exporting grains. They would have a common responsibility to hold reserves to meet demands occasioned by drought and other catastrophes and would decide on "measures for dealing with noncompliance."

Kissinger said a worldwide reserve of up to 16 million tons above present levels may be needed for adequate food security.

The report on the eve of the conference predicted a grave confrontation between the af-

Voter to mark 5 ballots

CHARLESTON — During today's general election, voters in the 16 precincts of Mississippi County will be marking five separate ballots.

Candidates for state, district and county offices are listed on one ballot. The only contested races on the ballot are on the state and district levels. Democratic candidates for county offices face no opposition.

Other ballots include: an initiative ballot proposing a new campaign financing law, a constitutional ballot with two proposed amendments, a judicial ballot and a health department trustee ballot.

The first amendment would permit 18-year-old registered voters to vote in all elections. The second amendment authorizes indebtedness by all municipalities and counties for industrial development upon approval by a two-thirds majority and the issuing of revenue bonds by cities with a simple majority approval of voters.

On the judicial ballot, voters will decide if William H. Billings, incumbent judge of the Missouri Court of Appeals in the Springfield district, shall be returned to office.

The final ballot provides for the election of two members to the board of trustees of the Mississippi County Health Department. Travis "Corky" Shelby Jr. was the only candidate to file for a four-year position.

Food basket costs only 3 cents more in October

By PAT GROJEAN

October's average food basket cost in Sikeston was only three cents more than the calculated cost for the September average food basket, making a total increase of $1.41 since The Daily Standard began its monthly survey five months ago.

The food basket cost for 42 selected items to Sikeston consumers averaged $30.64 at the end of October, compared to $30.61 for the same items in September.

Food basket costs were averaged after a survey of six grocery stores — Sikeston IGA, Safeway, Liberty, S & S Discount, Marks Food Mart and Barkett's Big Star — the same stores used in the previous surveys.

The largest price increase for individual products in the past has been for five pounds of sugar, but this month sugar prices in the six local stores showed a one- cent decrease, which does not follow the national price rise for the product.

Last month the average local price was up 75 cents from June 27 when the first survey was taken.

The largest increases this month were registered by instant tea, Miracle Whip salad dressing, ice cream and lettuce. A three-ounce jar of Lipton instant tea was up 15 cents over the past month, while the price for Miracle Whip was up 13 cents.

One-half gallon of vanilla ice cream increased the most, rising 18 cents from the previous month, for a 41-cent total increase over the July figure for the same product. A head of lettucce cost 12 cents more this month, after falling two cents last month.

Meat prices generally dropped during October. Bacon was down 14 cents a pound, ground beef dropped 10 cents and round steak with bone decreased 16 cents.

Other price reductions were noted for Crisco shortening, down 10 cents, and one pound of regular grind coffee, 15 cents lower.

For the second straight month, the average milk price did not change. Other items for which the price remained the same were bologna, vegetable oil, fruit cocktail, Minute Rice, macaroni dinner, spaghetti, quick oats and bread.

Fresh vegetable prices, other than lettuce and tomatoes, fell a few cents. One pound of carrots was down five cents, following a six-cent rise last month.

Bluff man seriously hurt

GRAY RIDGE — A Poplar Bluff man received serious injuries in a two-car traffic accident at 9:30 a.m. today on Highway 60 one and a half miles northeast of town.

The highway patrol reported that the accident occurred when a southbound car driven by James Bain, 18, of Essex pulled onto the highway from a gravel road and was struck in the side by an eastbound car driven by Ronald Cates, 25, of Poplar Bluff Route Seven.

Cates received serious injuries and was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston for treatment.

Burglar scared off

A member of the Murray Lane Baptist Church, 807 W. Murray Lane, surprised a burglar in a hallway of the church about 6:50 p.m. Monday, according to police.

Police said the church member found the man sitting in front of a soft drink machine trying to pry off the front of the coin box. When the man was asked what he was doing, he replied, "it's none of your business."

The church member called police, but the man was gone by the time officers arrived.

Police said they did not know if anything was taken.

2 suspects arrested

BENTON — Scott County Deputy Sheriff Vernon "Bud" Jones said today he arrested two men Sunday for the alleged theft of hogs from a farm in Ripley County.

Jones said the two, Ray Dyson, 18, formerly of Doniphan, and David LaRue, 24, of Essex, were arrested at the home of Dyson's brother in Salcedo. Dyson is also absent without leave from the military, Jones said.

The two allegedly shot the hogs and brought the meat to Scott County. The meat was recovered at another man's home, Jones said.

The two have been returned to Ripley County to face charges.

Harris given probation for Simmons shooting

BENTON — Jim Harris, 47, of Sikeston received a five-year suspended sentence and was placed on supervised probation in Circuit Court in connection with the March 27 shooting death of Enoch Simmons, 29, of Sikeston.

On Sept. 19, Harris had pleaded guilty to a charge of manslaughter, reduced from an original charge of first-degree murder.

At that time, Judge Marshall Craig referred Harris to the State Department of Probation and Parole for presentence investigation and ordered him to return to court on Oct..24 for sentencing.

Under the charge against Harris, he reportedly shot Simmons three times following an argument at Harris's Cafe at 201 Luther St. in Sikeston. Simmons was pronounced dead on arrival at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Jimmie Sloan was sentenced to serve three concurrent four-year terms in custody of the State Department of Corrections.

Upon conviction of forging a check on Aug. 20 to Super D Drug by signing the name Earl Sloan and writing a $100 bad check to Slusher Inc. and another charge of forging a check, both on Aug. 13.

Judge Craig referred Sloan to the Department of Probation and Parole for presentence investigation to determine if he would be suitable for parole.

After pleading guilty to an Aug. 21 charge of writing a $10 bad check to U-Pump-It Station, John Harold Schrum was placed on supervised probation for two years.

Clyde Eugene Parden was sentenced to one year in the county jail after he pleaded guilty to a Nov. 29 charge of tampering with a motor vehicle.

After pleading guilty to an Aug. 11 charge of tampering with a motor vehicle, Frank Burney was also placed on supervised probation for two years.

Marvine B. Thomas was sentenced to prison for four years for breaking into Prosecuting

There is an almost universal human desire to believe that peace is the natural condition of man, that armies are temporary nuisances, that conflicts of interest can be dissolved by a policy of goodwill. None of these things is true, but people like to believe they are; and one of the differences between democracies and the other sort of political system is that in democracies people elect politicians who can form governments which behave as if wishes were facts."

If insurance companies get their way, people will pay at least 10 per cent more for coverage on autos and homes in the near future.

According to a U.S. News & World report, the culprit, again, is inflation -- with rising costs of auto repairs, medical care and property claims causing widespread losses for insurance firms.

Early this summer, companies began filing with state insurance commissioners for rate boosts on home insurance and similar requests for auto-policy increases are now expected.

This comes at a time when government officials and consumer advocates argue that lower accident rates -- resulting from slower speeds and less driving -- merit a slash in auto insurance premiums.

Most state insurance commissioners are holding hearings and have advised insurers not to take windfall profits. In some cases, commissioners have sought rate reductions.

But in nearly every case, insurance firms have blocked proposed cuts, either through law suits or by convicning the commissioners that double-digit inflation has outweighed the effects of fewer auto accidents. In addition, insurance experts point out that over-all construction and home repair costs have increased more than 50 per cent since 1967. As a result, they say, many homes may be seriously underinsured unless owners have reviewed their coverage lately.

A RATHER PLUMP woman sauntered over to the sidewalk scales and climbed aboard before she noted the small Out of Order Sign.

A man came out of a nearby tavern, but because of her hulk he couldn't see the sign saying that the maching was not working correctly.

However, he saw the arrow swinging rapidly up to 50 and stop. He fell back against the building agast, "My Gosh! She's hollow!"

"Well, I'm sure there must be another for I was determined that I was going to have one of those $6 breakfasts my salesmen are always showing on their expense report when they ride this train and I don't find anything like it on the menu you gave me!"

SHOULD BE HEARD

Drugs and drug prescribing are one of the most sensitive areas of health care. In any program whereby the federal government assumes major responsibility for health care expenses the pharmaceutical industry fears the impact of inflexible controls on doctors and patients alike.

The president of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association observes that the drug industry's "principal, immediate concern is that Congress and officials of the Executive Branch clearly understand that certain proposals advanced in the name of cost curtailment would pose grave problems regarding the quality of drug products and their availability." One of these is a proposal for the establishment of a "...Federal Formulary and the appointment of a Formulary Committee in the Department of HEW (Health, Education and Welfare) to determine which medications would be qualified for reimbursement for beneficiaries under various Social Security programs."

After summarizing the ways in which a Federal Formulary and the determination of medications to be included in it by a committee would virtually guarantee the end of prescription drug progress as we have known it in the United States, the pharmaceutical association official declared: "There is no other way to say it: under this arrangement, a small, part- time Government committee would be empowered, on the basis of highly questionable criteria, to decide the life or death of all drug products which are now lawfully on the market. It is no good to pretend that rejected drugs would still be available; a medicine that is not eligible under a Federal drug program would be a lost cause." Nothing could be more in the public interest than the desire of the prescription drug industry "to be heard" in the growing debate concerning national health insurance.

HEADS HE WINS, TAILS THEY LOSE

President Nixon, through his lawyer James D. St. Clair, has thrown before the Congress of the United States in formal, explicit terms a challenge that was merely implicit in his posture over the months leading up to that historic Monday morning in the august chamber of the Supreme Court.

In his defense of the doctrine of executive privilege — specifically, the right of the President to withhold 64 White House tapes from the special Watergate prosecutor — St. Clair stated his argument in these sweeping terms.

Only Congress, he told the justices, through the impeachment process, has the power to breach the constitutional balance between the executive, legislative and judicial branches of the government. In all other cases, even in a criminal proceeding, the President has not only the right but the duty to refuse to disclose confidential information in his possession to either Congress or the courts if, in his judgment, such disclosure would jeopardize or encroach upon his executive functioning.

In other words, in any m atter before the Congress in which it is believed the President has relevant information — even if the President is not himself personally involved — the House of Representatives must first impeach the President before he can be required to produce that information.

Their argument is that only if it is conclusively shown that the President has committed some impeachable, criminal act — only if the "body" is produced — may the President be impeached.

If St. Clair's view were to prevail, all the work of the Judiciary Committee, whose hearings are certainly a legitimate and necessary part of the impeachment process, would be an exercise in futility. In this and any other matter in which presidential performance were under question, Congress must take the extreme, ultimate step of impeachment — or do nothing.

If the view of the President's supporters on the committee were to prevail, no president would ever be impeached for anything — short of shooting someone on the White House lawn in full view of witnesses.

Obviously, it cannot be both ways. That is why the decision of the Supreme Court, whatever its effects on the futunes of one Richard M. Nixon, will be remembered as one of the most mementous decisions in the history of the Republic.

UNDER GOD

IF THANKSGIVING DAY celebrates only an historic occasion it can have little value to us as a nation and less to us as individuals. That history has much to teach us is true, but it is true only in principle; it cannot be true in incident.

We shall never have to face again the first cold winter of the Pilgrim Fathers. Privation may again come to the nation as it did in the '20's and '30's, but such privation of necessity had a more sophisticated origin in an industrial context after World War I than it could possibly have had for a few score of settlers concerned for family survival in a rural setting.

The solution in the '20's could not be as simple as learning from the Indians the right crops to grow and the correct protection and fertilization to give; it had to take account of world markets, the problems of technology, the redundancy of labor and the reconstitution of society.

Yet the principle on which solution comes is the same in both instances- cooperation with nature (or God's laws as evidenced in technology- the stress on metal or the need to consume one's own waste, for example), and cooperation with man- (cooperating with the bosses or the workers being equivalent to the previous need to cooperate with the Indians.)

And if the basis for our thanksgiving today is the same in principle as the basis for our first thanksgiving in 1621, so also must the nature of our thanksgiving be the same.

The thanksgiving of the Pilgrim Fathers was an acknowledgement of their dependence upon God. It is always the sin of an affluent age that it forgets the origin of its wealth and well- being. The first king of Israel had to be reminded of this dependence. "When thou wast little in thine own sight," said the prophet Samuel to Saul, "wast thou not made...king over Israel...Wherefore then didst thou not obey the voice of the Lord...?" (1 Samuel 15:17, 19)

"There is all the difference between making this a nation under God, and making a god of this nation," said Rep. William H. Hudnut, a United Presbyterian minister preaching to 300 guests at the White House recently. The phrase "a nation under God" was coined by Abraham Lincoln and "Lincoln's religion was rooted in an extensive knowledge of the Bible and in an intensive life of prayer."

"Under God" we in America have much cause for thanksgiving. We have an alcoholic problem, a drug problem, a crime problem, a governmental problem, an international problem, but the majority of our people have material prosperity, have leisure to enjoy their amenities, live in comparative security and die in their beds. "He hath not dealth with us after our sins; nor rewarded us according to our iniquity" (Psalm 103:10).

We have folk who live immoral lives, firms which publish pornography, societies which deny the existence of God, but our many churches are full and there are many voices quick to be raised at the sight of injustice or moral decay.

Individually, we can all have a Thanksgiving Day. "Count your blessings, name them one by one, and it will surprise you what the Lord hath done."

There are some who will cry, "What have I to thank God for?" and we admit there are those who live miserable lives, whose economic situation leaves much to be desired, and we ask Christians "under God" to care for those in need, so that the poor also can give God thanks.

There are others who are in dire straits through their own fault. "I've made a mess of my life. What have I to thank God for?" To them we say, "You can thank Him that He never leaves you; that the moment you want to change He is there to help you conquer the sin that so easily besets you, and to help you recover your self-respect.

You can be SAVED, and for the man who is saved, every day is Thanksgiving Day.

Boston Busing

The turmoil surrounding the busing of school in Boston continues unabataed. It is tragic in its consequences because it has provoked violence, hatred, clashed among public officials and, above all, loss of education for children. The roots of the tragedy rest with the federal judiciary which has legislated the operation of public schools, a function that should be left to local authorities, expecially independent school districts.

Integration is not the real issue. The heart of the problem is the forced busing of children across town to attend schools far removed from their homes. It is an uprooting of children from their natural surroundings in neighborhoods and the spending of many hours on buses during each semester. These are hours that could be used in study, work and play. Cross-town busing also subjects children to undue traffic hazards, expecially in the wintertime.

The federal judiciary has been adamant in its stand on the busing issue, but the remedy for the problem, as usual, rests with the people. If there is enough demand for a constitutional prohibition on prohibition on school busing, the Congress will submit an amendment to the people. Polls taken when the issue of forced busing first surfaced showed that black and white alilke were opposed to it.

One young Boston student was asked in a recent interview what children wanted. "Peace and an education," was the reply. It is an answer that adults of the nation should take to heart and heed with prompt action. HLH

He Is The Greatest

WASHINGTON -- Although this is Election Day, I can't seem to get the Muhammad Ali fight out of my mind. Suppose, just suppose, one of the candidates who wins today also was influenced by the fight.

"Senator, how does it feel to be the winner?"

"I am the greatest! I am the greatest senator of all time! Never again make me the underdog in an election race. I told you stupid reporters I'd take my opponent, but you wouldn't pay any attention. You said Whipplesneed was finished -- that I was too old, that all the fight had gone out of me. Well, you suckers just write that there has never been anyone like me in politics; I am so beautiful."

"When did you feel you had it won, Senator?"

"I (ital) always (unital) felt I had it won. Grimstark is a um. He didn't deserve to run against me. I shouldn't have even campaigned against him; he was so weak. He was nothing. Everry time he saw one of my TV commercials, his knees shook."

"But what was the strategy that tipped the election in your favor?"

"I just let Grimstark swing wildly at the issues till he got tired. When you're the greatest, you don't deal with issues. You just sit there and let the voters come to you. When you go up against afool like Grimstark, you just wait for an opening and pour it on. He was burned out a week before Election Day."

"Senator, the main subject in your fight with Grimstark seemed to be inflation. He attacked you on that."

"I wasn't afraid of Grimstark attacking me. I just ignored it and hit him where it hurt. I socked him with the fact that he had a mistress on his payroll in the state capitol. He had no defense against that. You tell everyone that Whipplesneed knows how to hit below the belt."

"Didn't you think the fact that Grimstark let you have it on the chin with your own tax returns would hurt you?"

"He never laid a glove on me with that one. I brushed it aside and gave him the old one-two about his being soft on communism. That really hurt him. Didn't you see him bleeding when I brought that one up from the floor?"

"Senator, this has been your fourth defense of your title. How does it compare with the other campaigns you've been in?"

"It was the easiest. I don't feel I've even been in a fight. Grimstark shouldn't go up against somebody as great as I am. He's not in my class."

"Now thatthe election is over, are you going to let bygones be bygones?"

"Are you crazy? I'm going to spend the next six years getting even with everyone who voted against me. They were stupid and I'm not going to let them forget it. People better pay attention to me now -- because I am sick and tired of them saying I am washed up."

"Now that you've beaten Grimstark, who would you like to take on next, Senator?"

"I'm after No. 1."

"You mean you want to run for President?"

"I think Mr. Ford would be afraid to run against me. He keeps talking about wanting to run for President in '76. But when he hears I want a shot at his title, he's going to be runningthe other way. You want to hear a poem I just wrote?"

"Sure, Senator."

"Gerry Ford, I'm out to getch ya.

"Next two years have lots of fun.

"But don't mess up MY Air Force One."

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: The Klassen Clam-Up

WASHINGTON - A new Postal Service, which was supposed to put the mails on a businesslike basis, was established on Jan. 1, 1972.

Today, mail service has declined; thousands of local post offices have been closed; twice-daily deliveries have been abandoned; Saturday service has been cut; carrier routes have been consolidated; and special services have been trimmed.

The new "managed mail" system has actually lengthened the delivery time in many areas. Indeed, the Postal Service has refused to deliver the mail to some new suburban developments. Every day brings more complaints of mail misdirected or lost. And postal morale is also at an all-time low.

Yet the price of mailing letters has rivaled the price of oil on the inflationary index, rising 67 per cent. This year's postal deficit, nevertheless, is $500 million, and another $500 million deficit is expected next year.

The Postal Service has asked Congress for still another $44 million to make up lost revenue, which the wage-price freeze caused by delaying a postal rate increase. The way things are going, the 25-cent stamp is only a few years away.

The man largely responsible for the postal problems, however, is determined to hang onto his job, come hell or high water. He is Elmer "Ted Klassen, the postmaster general, whose stewardship of the Postal Service has been a litany of management mistakes and personal pecadillos.

A gruff, towering man with a blunt charm, Klassen considers himself a fighter. He is determined to battle for his personal career, despite the adverse impact it will have on mail service.

In a series of columns, we have detailed how Klassen dealt out contracts to his friends, improved his lifestyle at public expense, padded the payroll with his cronies and accepted a fee from a postal contractor.

As a result, the FBI is investigating whether the fee constituted an illegal kickback and a congressional subcommittee is taking sworn testimony on some of the contracting boondogges.

Yet Klassen stubbornly refuses to step aside. The Postal Service today is much like the White House in the last days of Richard Nixon. The public business takes second place to defending the boss. Decisions are delayed and programs are postponed.

A fatalistic air stultifies postal headquarters. And insiders tell us that morale in the field has never been lower.

Klassen and his cohorts, meanwhile, deserve the Watergate award for the best coverup of the year. Two associates, for example,pressured a postal employe into clamming up before a scheduled FBI interview.

The two heavies told the employe, according to a notarized statement submitted to the FBI, that "the people up front were plenty sick and tired of all this adverse publicity, especially that being generated by disgruntled employes."

If he made any "dumb moves," the postal employe was warned, he would be "eased out of the postal service" and it would be made "virtually impossible" for him to land a comparable new job.

The postmaster general also pulled every wire he could lay his hands on to postpone the congressional hearings. He called representatives, senators, businessmen and labor leaders in an attempt to bring pressure on Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Calif., to call off or at least delay the hearings.

But the pressure backfired, and the tough Wilson proceeded to put many postal higherups and contractors under oath. He found that Klassen had been less than candid in his public denials of our stories.

The postmaster general struck back through the American Postal Workers Union, which got just about everything it requested at the last bargaining session with Klassen. The union boss, Francis Filbey, put out a poisonous press release calling the Wilson subcommittee members "jackals" and an unnamed columnist a "pygmy journalist."

While postal pay has gone up, it should be added, Klassen's cutbacks in the labor force have caused hardships. Many workers now have to put in long hours of overtime to move the mails.

Filbey told my associate Jack Cloherty that he did not, in Klassen's behalf, ask Rep. Wilson to delay the postal hearings. But we have been informed by unimpeachable sources that Filbey, indeed, did contact Wilson.

In the days of the Pony Express, it took four days to move a letter from coast to coast. Today, 100 years and $100 billion later, it often still takes four days. With new leadership and some structural changs, the Postal Service may eventually be able to outperform the Pony Express.

Footnote: Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., a personal friend of Klassen's, has asked him to resign. Other members of the House Postal Committee are preparing to join the call.

$25 Million Low Estimate: One Bullet-Ridden Local Union Gave Quarter Million to Politicans.

WASHINGTON - Not too long ago the leader of this strategically placed St. Louis, Mo., pipefitters local was removed by two bullets in the head and three slugs in the body. Later the tough young son of a dead criminal who once owned the union piled up considerable power as its business agent and "someone" decided to resign him with a bomb.

But it only blew off two legs and part of a hand. Today he operates under heavy bodyguard.

Now it seems that the 1,600 to 1,700 members of St. Louis steamfitters Local 562 will try for a less bloody scheme of succession. A 47-year-old rank- and-file pipefitter, Bill Dolan, is running against the establishment in an election set for Dec. 14. The power post is called business manager.

All of which in the television business we call an "intro" to another hooked-in story -- which in this instance is the ill-famed local's heavy political money spent on regional and national elections.

This money is raised by the hundreds of thousands each year through what the federals call "shoe box" collection on the job sites -- and I have before me some fascinating figures. But first this: in the past, these monies have gone to the campaigns of the late Lyndon Johnson, Bob Kennedy and Sens. Eagleton, Symington and some members of the House.

But that's still another story. What's intended here is to show how the labor movement does pay out upward of $25 million in just one congressional season to finance its political friends.

Here is one bloody local which in the 1972 congressional year contributed $241,019.44. And this is from just one of thousands of politically active locals across the land. This money was raised by the union's Voluntary, Political, Educational, Legislative, Charity and Defense Fund. Note that the charitable contributions came to $31,333 that year. The figures for 1974 aren't in yet, of course.

Note too, please, that the union's central treasury also makes charitable contributions -- $960 in '72 while it gave "Christmas gifts to members," worth $48,671.82. So you now know where its heart lies.

The voluntary fund is collected each working day at the rate of $1 a man and $2 for "permit" worker. Of course, the union says the collections are "voluntary." But only some 60 of Local 562's hundreds of dues payers have refused to contribute. As they say in today's popular TV shows: "Some voluntary!"

But back to the range of "voluntary" money disbursements. In 1972 the fund "collected" $368,880.85. To handle this sum, my document shows the union officials, or whoever moved the money, acknowledge spending $172,671.90 on "administrative" costs. Someone must be getting paid construction-rate prevailing wages for sorting out the dollar bills. Who?

Well, the union protested that the government had no right to these records. What records? Well, the local's secretary-treasurer "does not have any records of the Voluntary, Political, Educational, Legislative, Charity and Defense Fund," according to the union's report to the government.Further, in the annual report, the local's officers were sufficiently candid tostate : "The Union's independent accountant has summarized the records of the Voluntary (etc.) Fund based upon information furnished without verification."

This union also is shot through (you can believe it literally) with lucrative nepotism -- sons of former officials and other close relatives have good jobs or pensions or high-priced autos as gifts.

This local, which is at the inner gut of hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of construction, has a sordid record. Why then do Congressmen accept its contributions? Sen. Symington is an astronautics buff. He should come in from outer space and look at the record. Sen. Eagleton is on the Labor and Public Welfare Committee -- this means the public as well as labor.

The party's the thing. And political cash. The local's contribution ot "Friends of Lyndon Johnson" back in one campaign year was $25,000 at least.

Thus, there's a moral as well as a political accounting due here. But since the actual money total spent by the labor movement in this past election is the key point, the '72 contribution of this one local becomes significant in the controversy over whether labor has spent $5 million or $25 million or the now famed "$100 million." There is no way of totaling all union money spent. Not unless the contributions are computerized.

This isn't likely to develop. No one wants it. Political hunger is bipartisan. Actually, the supreme issue is not who gets the money, but what do they owe in return to such unions as the crime-and-bomb-rocked Local 562? And why don't they try to help it right itself by putting the national spotlight on a truly democratic election Dec. 14?

Then, at least, some of the public's welfare would be served.

FOR A SERIOUS PURPOSE

NEW YORK (AP) — The comic book has joined the more serious text books of education to help developing readers.

"The Electric Company," television's contribution to easing education's reading crisis, has published "Spidey Super Stories," a new four-color comic starring the super-hero "Spider-Man" as an education device.

While not the first time the comics have been used as an educational tool, Spider-Man's adventures for the Electric Company are believed to be the first in which educational researchers have applied their knowledge

P'ville man held in shooting

PORTAGEVILLE-- A Portageville man, Leon Gribble, is in custody of the New Madrid County sheriff's department, and two others whose names were not disclosed, are being sought for questioning in connection with a shooting incident at 1:30 a.m. today in which shots were fired into the Russell Moore home on Big Dusty Road about four miles west of town.

Deputy Sheriff Willis "Bo" Wingo said it appeared two pistol shots had been fired from a car into the wall of the house. No injuries were reported and damage was minor, Wingo said.

Informal council session held

NEW MADRID-- Lacking a quorum for a regular meeting Monday night, Mayor Jim Cravens and Aldermen George Dawson, John A. Hunter and Bill Boyd met in an informal session and heard a complaint by Bobby Daniels, 708 Mitchell St., about being required to place his garbage at the front of his premises for pickup.

Daniels had refused to pay the charge for pickup service, as well as the light bill listed on the same bill, and his lights had been cut off.

Board members told him citywide trash pickups and the accompanying charge are required by state law and must be paid.

Daniels asked the board members about building an alley behind the dwellings on the west side of Mitchell Street behind the dwellings. The concensus of the members present was that the city had never constructed alleys and that the cost was prohibitive.

The council members agreed to call a special meeting Wednesday or Thursday for conducting regular business and to meet with a representative from the law firm of Blanton, Blanton and Rice and Sickal of Sikeston concerning the city's suit over the contract for purchase of power from Associated Electric Cooperative.

Merideth named to committee position

CARUTHERSVILLE — D. J. Merideth Jr., Route One, presiding judge of the Pemiscot County Court, late last week was named vice chairman of the recently organized Bootheel Resource, Conservation, and Development Committee. The committee is another arm of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission.

"This committee was in the process of being formed by the planning commission during the last six months and was finally organized last month," Merideth commented. "I think it's a fine organization."

He said the main purpose of the committee is to help acquire funds for recreation, drainage, park areas and other such resources in the Bootheel area.

In addition to Merideth, the committee elected two other officers at a meeting last week. Elmer Kinkade of Bernie was elected chairman, and K.M. Streeter of Scott County was named secretary - treasurer.

The committee acted on the bylaws and made a recommendation to the planning commission that the new committee's application be submitted to the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Washington.

Kincade stated at the meeting that the Bootheel Resource, Conservation and Development Committee will play a "vital role in improving the drainage, erosion and sedimentation problems in the Bootheel".

He stressed the importance of the committee to the Bootheel's agricultural- based economy. He pointed out that although each county may experience individual county drainage problems, only through joint county and bi-state cooperation can these problems be solved.

Kincade said all drainage districts, municipalities and counties will be eligible recipients of funds once the new committee receives notification of funding.

SeMo health agency celebrates state week

HAYTI — SeMo Regional Home Health Agency is among the state's 33 certified home health agencies celebrating Home Health Services Week this week, proclaimed for the first time this year by Gov. Christopher Bond.

Administrator William D. Pate announced that the SeMo Regionial Home Health Agency will make every effort to acquaint residents of Southeast Missouri with the health services available to them in their own homes.

"We hope this week will serve as a means to educate the hundreds of people who could be receiving skilled nursing in their homes rather than being hospitalized or sent to nursing homes and senior citizen facilities," Pate said.

SeMo Regional Home Health Agency provides these services to any resident who is homebound and under a doctor's plan of treatment.

Sponsored by the Missouri Association of Home Health Agencies, this first Home Health Services Week honors both health centers and community-based agencies which provide and arrange for part-time nursing, home health aide and therapeutic services in patients' homes, help cut hospital stays and costs and make it possible for many chronically ill and recuperating citizens to maintain themselves and their homes.

The SeMo Regional Home Health Agency serves the six-county Bootheel area through county health departments. The six counties served by the agency are Scott, Stoddard, Mississippi, New Madrid, Dunklin and Pemiscot.

Civil defense meeting planned

BERNIE — Civil defense director Jerry Phelan informed the City Council Monday night of a civil defense meeting, scheduled at 2:30 p.m. Nov. 10 in Malden, to set up a sky-warning system and work out a plan to pool resources of neighboring civil defense units in emergency situations.

Mayor R. B. Woods told the council that the city has received a permit for the solid waste disposal system.

Woods further reported that Ronald Yersak of the Bootheel Regional Planning Commission has been asked to fill out the necessary forms for updating Bernie's comprehensive plan. The plan will include goals the city hopes to accomplish in the future.

The ma-dake bamboo grows in large stands, with individual stalks reaching heights of more than 60 feet. The plant reproduces asexually as cloves from a single root. When the stalks of this plant flower, usually between 60 to 120 years after sprouting, they die without producing viable seeds.

PREPAYMENT PENALTIES

You've sold your home. Your buyer obtained new financing with a new mortgage. Therefore, your old mortgage was, undoubtedly, paid in full with part of your proceeds from the sale. Paying off a mortgage in advancce of its original loan length is known in the trade as "prepayment".

Many lenders today require a prepayment penalty if a mortgage is paid off prior to its original due date, and you'll find this can amount to several hundred dollars.

If you paid this penalty, don't forget that the Internal Revenue Service treats the prepayment penalty the same as interest - which can be a valuable deduction from your income tax.

But, in spite of the tax break, always try to bargain for the smallest prepayment p enalty or no penalty at all.

Traveling Cabana

Bathing machines were used in the 18th and 19th centuries in England and France. The horse-drawn box on wheels was a bath-house for changing and was then driven into the water, away from the beach. Bathers stepped down or were lowered into the water. When they wished to return to the beach, they signalled with flags for the vehicle to "pick them up".

Tips on selecting thread provided

By JEWEL GRADY
Area Textiles & Clothing Specialist

Jewel Grady

BLOOMFIELD — Do you have problems selecting sewing thread; For many years mercerized cotton and silk were the only choices the home sewer had when selecting thread. These fibers used in thread, however, fulfilled the requirement, as the majority of fabriccs used then were natural fibers.

The development of synthetic or man-made fibers brought many new types of fabric and a variety of finishes. Compatible thread characteristics are required to properly stitch these new fabrics.

Today threads are made of a combination of fibers and techniques. Two popular threads are the spun p olyester thread and polyester filament core wrapped with mercerized cotton and twisted into a strand of thread.

Tips on thread facts to keep in mind when selecting thread are:

---Select according to fabric weight and fiber.

For top stitching, silk button hole twist is primarily used. However, you may use two strands of polyester thread. Place two full bobbins on spool holder and thread both strands through a No. 14 or No. 16 needle. Use six to eight stitches per inch.

Early Warning Signs of a Heart Attack

Every year, over half a million Americans die of the nation's number one killer—heart disease. Many of these deaths were needless because the victims did not recognize the early warning signs of a heart attack and seek help in time. Minutes count when a heart attack occurs; unnecessary delay can be fatal.

What are the symptoms of a heart attack? The Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States says watch for the following danger signs:

- Temporary or prolonged heavy pressure or squeezing pain in the center of the chest.
- Chest pains that spread to the shoulder, arm, neck, or jaw.
- Sweating, nausea, vomiting or shortness of breath accompanying such chest pains.

Half the people who die from heart attacks apparently do not recognize these symptoms in time. They never reach a hospital.

So, even if you think your discomfort may be due to a stomach upset or similar problem, get to a doctor for a diagnosis. If your doctor is not available, go to a hospital emergency room at once. Hospital coronary care units have reduced the death rate of heart attacks by at least half.

Remember, your good health begins with you.

Ann Landers

Definition of man reprinted

Dear Ann Landers: I'm sending a column that I have saved since March 1962. As you can see, it is yellow with age, but it's such a good I wish you would rerun it. I'm sure your readers who remember it will be pleased to see it again. Thank you for all the pleasure you've given me.--Mrs. B. Willing, River Forest, Ill.

Dear Mrs. W: Here's your rerun. Thanks for making my Tuesday easier.

Dear Ann Landers: Your column is a study of Man. But what is Man? Here is my definition:

Man is what woman marries. Generally speaking, he has two hands and two feet. But he rarely has more than one dollar or one idea at a time.

Making a husband out of a man is one of the most intricate and challenging forms of plastic art known to civilization. This art requires a knowledge of science, sculpture, common sense, intuition, patience, faith, hope and charity.

It is a psychological phenomenon that a small, tender, soft, violet-scented creature like a woman should enjoy kissing a stubby-chinned, tobacco-and-bourbon scented thing like a man.

If you flatter a male, you frighten him to death. If you don's you bore him to death.

If he gets what he wants, he becomes uninterested--and it's the end. If he doesn't get what he wants, he becomes uninterested--and there's no beginning.

If you wear gay colors, eye makeup and startling hats he hesitates to take you out. If you wear tailored suits and a little brown beret he stares all evening at the woman in gay colors, eye makeup and the startling hat.

If you a clinging vine, incapable of making a decision, he considers you an idiot. If you are decisive and accomplished he considers you a machine.

If you are simple and uncomplicated he longs for a brainy woman with ideas. If you are a brainy woman with idea he suspects you are competing with him and eventually he dumps you in favor of a stupid playmate.

What is the solution to this puzzlement of human nature, this collage of quirks and contradictions? Who knows the answers? I don't. That's why I'm writing to Ann Augusta, Me.

Dear Augusta: Woman was not born to understand man. She was born to love him.

Dear Ann Landers: I'll make this short and to the point. My husband and I are having a tough time making it on his paycheck. I want to go back to work. I can get my old job back and it's work I enjoy. The money is excellent. I'd be working the 6:30 a.m. shift and my husband works from 4:00 p.m. to midnight. (He loves this shift and there is no way I could get him off of it. I've tried.) If I want to work I will have to pay the babysitter because he refuses to watch our two children. He says, "You wanted the kids. Now you can watch 'em. You don't have to work. If you want to go back to your old job then you can pay the sitter."

Ann, I am not asking him to clean or cook--just watch the kids till I get home. What's your advice?--Married to a Hard-Headed Dutchman

Dear Married to a H.H.D.: Before I answer your letter I want to make it plain to all my readers in Grand Rapids and Midland, Mich., and certain parts of Pennsylvania that You called him a Hard-Headed Dutchman-- I didn't.

Answer: He should watch the kids, not only to save money but so he can become acquainted with his children. It's painfully apparent that he has a poor relationship with them, and the new setup would alter this immeasurably.

Even if drinking is the "in" thing in your crowd, it needn't crowd youout. Learn the facts from Ann lander's booklet, Booze and You--For Agers Only." Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Meanwhile, 7-0 Oklahoma turned back Iowa State 28-10 and received 10 first-place ballots and 1,090 points. Ohio State's margin last week was 1,222-1,123.

Alabama put on an impressive performance in trouncing Mississippi State 35-0 and moved up from fourth to third, trading places with Michigan, which was hard-pressed to beat Indiana 21-7. Alabama received two first-place votes and 918 points while Michigan got the other first-place vote and 850 points.

Texas A&M, eighth the last three weeks, climbed to fifth by defeating Arkansas 20-10. Auburn, which had been fifth for three weeks, slipped to 10th following its first defeat of the year, a 25-14 loss to Florida which lifted the Gators from 11th to sixth.

Southern California, which had been sixth, skidded to 11th after being held to a 15-15 deadlock by California.

Penn State defeated Maryland, another ranking team, 24-17 and rose from 10th to seventh. The Nittany Lions edged ahead of Notre Dame's defending national champions, who dropped from seventh to eighth after a hard-fought 14-6 victory over Navy.

Mizzou on TV

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri football game against No. 2-ranked Oklahoma will be broadcast nationally Saturday on the Mutual-Armed Forces radio network and televised on a delayed basis Sunday, an MU spokesman said.

the radio network normally presents the weekly Notre Dame game with the C. D. Chesley Network televising highlights of the Notre Dame contest early Sunday. However, the Irish have an open date this weekend.

Oklahoma, on probation by the National Collegiate Athletic Association, is barred from competing in live television coverage and on delayed basis of games involving the NCAA's contract with the American Broadcasting Company. The NCAA sanction does not affect games televised by the C. D. Chesley Network.

The Hawks controlled the boards and took a 15-8 first period lead and increased the lead in the second period outscoring the Wildcats 18-8 to take a 33-16 lead at the intermission.

Bloomfield used a full court press in the third period to cut the lead by outscoring the Hawks 16-14. Kelly was just too much for the smaller Wildcats to handle in the fourth period.

In the second game of the night the Puxico Indians jumped to a 29-7 halftime lead with the use of a running game and a full court press but Delta turned the game around in the second half with a press of their own and almost pulled the game out of the fire.

Delta outscored the Indians 18-8 in the third period and 19-12 in the fourth.

Morgan Sifford hit 14 for the Indians and Ronnie Bowers popped in 16 for the Bobcats. Bowers was scoreless in the first half.

OIL SPILLS FINGERPRINTED

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Dr. Michael Anbar, head of the Stanford University's Mass Spectrometer Research Center, claims to have come up with a method of connecting oil spills with the ships from which they probably came.

A sort of "oil fingerprinting," the key to the method is a machine called a field ionization mass spectrometer which can provide precise molecular weight profiles of oil spills, showing exact proportions in the goo.

NFL attendance down

By The Associated Press

The fans who packed National Football League stadiums in record numbers last year are staying away in ever-increasing numbers this time around.

More than 81,000 ticket-holders for NFL games last Sunday decided they had better things to do than use those ducats, producing the largest number of no-shows this season.

A variety of factors are responsible for the decrease in attendance, with an average drop around the league of about 4,000 fans per game from last year's record average of 58,961. And decreased attendance also means loss of potential revenue from parking and concessions.

One major factor apparently was the strike called by the NFL Players Association. With veterans manning the picket lines and rookies and free agents taking their places on the playing fields, the average attendance at 78 preseason games was 36,653, down about 18,000 or 33 per cent, according to NFL figures. NFL owners claimed a cumulative $12 million in losses during the preseason, and the losses — although not as large, significant nonetheless — have continued into the regular season.

Also cutting into NFL attendance was the presence of the World Football League, which has considerable problems of its own but which does offer fans an alternative to the established NFL. The new league was aided in its early days by the NFLPA strike.

The general downturn in the econoy also has its impact. Some past season-ticket holders decided not to renew for this season, while others have decided not to shell out the ticket prices at the gate.

Television is yet another major factor. The blackout policy instituted last year permits local televising of games which are sold out 72 hours in advance, but also permits networks to substitue a game of significant interest for a soldout local contest which is not considered a prime attraction. Many fans would apparently rather watch a telecast of a game between two contenders than go out to the stadium to watch their home team meet a weak opponent.

Sunday's high number of noshows was partially due to harsh weather conditions, which kept some 22,000 away from Chicago's Soldier Field for the Bears' game against the Minnesota Vikings and 11,000 away from Arrowhead Stadium in Kansas City, where the Chiefs met the New York Giants.

But the weather was fine in Miami, and 12,000 ticket holders stayed home rather than watch the Dolphins clobber the Atlanta Falcons 42-7.

Metcalf doubtful

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals say star running back Terry Metcalf may miss next Monday night's televised National Football League game against the Minnesota Vikings at Busch Stadium because of a knee injury.

But, the club said Monday, damaged ligaments the 5-foot-10, 185-pound Metcalf suffered in a 17-14 Sunday loss to the Dallas Cowboys will not necessitate surgery.

The nimble Metcalf, the NFL's leading all-purpose back, was injured when ganged by three Dallas tacklers in the first half at Texas Stadium.

While his injury mends, Dr. James Elsasser said, Metcalf's status for the Minnesota game will probably be listed as "doubtful" on a day to day basis.

Other Cardinals nursing lesser injuries are tackle Ernie McMillan and guard Bob Young of the offensive line and running backs Jim Otis and Donny Anderson.

States and provinces in the Mississippi Flyway have been trying to raise the population of Canada geese that winter in Missouri to over 200,000 birds. Intensive study on the birds all the way from the Canadian tundra to Missouri, plus cooperation from hunters has helped the states set seasons which have raised the flock to near that population level.

Luis Tiant of the Boston Red Sox has put together two straight 20-win campaigns. In 1968 he won 21 games for Cleveland.

Both Minnesota and Atlanta gave up on pitcher Luis Tiant in 1971. Both teams gave him an unconditional release.

Pitcher Pat Dobson of the New York Yankees won 20 games for the 1971 Baltimore Orioles. He broke in with Detroit in 1967.

Investment pays off

How would you like the task of getting the cooperation of more than 100,000 birds, thousands of people and the weather on a long-range project?

That's what faced Mississippi Flyway waterfowl biologists six years ago when they decided to try to increase the eastern prairie flock of Canada geese to 200,000 post-season birds.

If all goes well, the goal will be reached next spring when the birds head north to the Hudson's Bay tundra for another nesting season. It hasn't been easy.

Because of increased hunting pressure down the flyway, the biologists felt it was important to build the flock so there would be a good production base for each nesting season.

"We had an almost immediate setback in 1969," says Ken Babcock, water-fowl biologist for the Department of Conservation.

"A big snowstorm caused a nesting bust and that threw a monkey wrench in the whole plan.

"Geese are different than other creatures -- there is no assured annual increment to harvest. The birds don't mate until their third year, so after a nesting failure it takes three years to get back into production."

Missouri hunters, whose cooperation was vital, calmly accepted a cut in the Swan Lake zone quota from 25,000 in 1968 to a low of 14,000 in 1971 and 1972. Last year, the quota crept up to 17,500 as the flock continued to grow.

This year, it will be 20,000. Through the lean years, the hunters have been patient and understanding.

"It's not just what has been done in Missouri," Babcock says. "Iowa and Minnesota both made sacrifices. Minnesota went from a 70-day season with two bird limit to nine days and one bird."

Babcock estimates that, assuming the 1974 hatching season was average (and from what he found on his annual trip to the tundra, he doesn't expect more than an average production), the pre-season flock will be from 275,000 to 280,000.

He found nesting was anywhere from 10 days to two weeks late because of cold weather in the north country. "Previous studies show that when we have a late season, clutch size and productivity decline," he says.

"But we have an ace in the hole in that there was a nice increase in the number of nestingfemales, so even with depressed hatch per female, we think the production will be good.

"We'll have years of low productivity and setbacks in the eastern prairie flock," he says. "We'll have to tighten our belts again when that happens.

"But with the 200,000 post-season flock, we feel we can change regulations to suit the conditions and provide the best possible season each year."

This is the third year of a study to isolate the breeding grounds of the flock in order to accurately predict the hatch early enough too be confident about the annual goose hunting regulations.

Hunters and birds have cooperated beautifully for six years. Now if they can just get the weather squared away ...

Flood postpones game

Sikeston high school's scheduled sophomore gridiron encounter at Cape Girardeau Central Monday afternoon was postponed until Monday, Nov. 11, because of a flooded playing field. The game will be held at 3:30 p.m. in Cape.

Bowhunting family

NEW HAVEN — Trying to guess what the meat course in most families will be on a given night is chancy, but where the Hale family is concerned, the odds are good that it will be venison.

George (Bud) Hale Jr. of New Haven has been after a deer with a bow and arrow for several years and has suffered every jinx known to bowhunters.

But he finally broke the string of bad luck with a 125-pound doe on opening day. Five days later his son, Alan, took a 108-pound doe, the fourth deer of his bowhunting career. A week after that, on October 13, yet another son, Ronnie, took a doe.

The season probably is not over for the Hale family. There are two other boys, Dennis and Darryl, who are bowhunters and who still are hunting.

Mrs. George Hale used to bowhunt, but isn't this year. Bowhuunting is a family tradition -- George's brother Donald, once hit a dove on the wing with an arrow.

Through the third week of October, bow hunters had taken 648 deer, compared to 559 through the same period last year.

Johnson County led with 36 deer, including 24 taken during the annual Knob Noster State Park bowhunt. Of the counties where special hunts were not involved, Gasconade had 24, St. Charles 23 and Knox 18. Taney County, which hosted a special hunt at Drury Refuge, had 23.

QUICK THINKING HELPS POLICE

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP) — A newsboy who knows how to take quick notes has been credited with helping police arrest two women and three men accused in connection with a string of 20 thefts in western Massachusetts.

Police say the unidentified newsboy — who works for the Berkshire Eagle here — spotted a burglary and quickly jotted down the license number of the getaway car. It didn't matter that he was not carrying a notepad — the youth scribbled the number on his forearm.

Missouri voters go to polls

Band, chorus plan concert

MATTHEWS — The high school and junior high school band and chorus will present their fall concert today in the high school gymnasium at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited.

Rats have been known to gnaw through water pipes.

ST. LOUIS (-0)--Missourians were casting ballots today on whether to send Democrat Thomas F. Eagleton back to the U. S. Senate for another six-year term, or to replace him with Republican Thomas B. Curtis.

In addition to settling the rematch between Curtis and Eagleton, Missouri voters will select a state auditor, 180 state legislators, 10 congressmen, hundreds of local candidates, and will decide the fate of two constitutional amendments and a proposed campaign financing law.

Curtis, who has promised to end inflation, lost to Eagleton by a little less than 37,000 votes in 1968 after serving 18 years in the U. S. House. Curtis, 63, a lawyer from Clayton, has been out of office for four years.

A Turnout of 1,160,000, or 53 per cent of the registered voters, was predicted by Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick. More than 1,280,000 voted in the 1970 non-presidential elections. The polls opened at 6 a. m. And will close at 7 p. m.

The state has 4,688 precincts.

Curtis challenged Eagleton after Republican Atty. Gen. John C. Danforth decided not to run. Danforth and Republican Gov. Christopher S. Bond have campaigned for Curtis, but the biggest GOP push has been for Republican John Ashcroft, 32, trying to hang onto the auditor's job he was appointed to by Bond.

The Republicans need the auditor's post to build support for the 1976 elections. The Democrats, on the other hand, hope to balance the state elective offices at three Republicans and three Democrats with a victory by George Lehr, 37-year-old chief executive of Jackson County.

There have been few hot issues in the auditor's race. Both men say the other could do a good job.

The auditor's race is considered a tossup. Lehr's chances will be enhanced by a wide victory margin by Eagleton, if it happens. Eagleton is considered to be leading Curtis.

Today, Eagleton planned to relax in the St. Louis area. Curtis planned to vote in Clayton and then was to visit St. Louis city and county polling places. Lehr campaigned with Eagleton Monday and headed back to Kansas City. He will watch the returns at the Continental Hotel in Kansas City.

Ashcroft will observe the returns at Jefferson City's Ramada Inn after voting in Willard, where he owns a home. Eagleton and Curtis will sit out election night in Clayton, Eagleton at the Colony Hotel and Curtis at his apartment.

The campaign financing law, which will require candidates to disclose all contributions of $25 or more, got on the ballot via a frenzied, five-week petition effort when the legislature failed to pass a law.

It was expected to pass easily, but opposition from labor leaders, rural community leaders and the secretary of state and State Sen. Albert Spradling, D-Cape Girardeau, have lessened its chances.

The main objection of the opposition is a requirement that candidates list soources of income or gifts, by name, that total $100 or more in the previous year.

One constitutional amendment brings the State Constitution into compliance with federal law on the 18-year-old vote and 30-day residency requirement.

The second constitutional amendment will allows counties and Kansas City and the city of of St. Louis to sell general obligation bonds by a two-thirds voter approval. The bonds would be used for industrial development.

A second part of the proposal allows cities to sell revenue bonds for financing of city owned utilities, airports or industrial development by a majority vote of the people, rather than a four-sevenths majority.

Common Cause, a citizens' lobbying group headquartered in Washington, recently reported that Eagleton had received over $600,000 in contributions for his campaign, compared with $230,000 for Curtis. Eagleton has received $286,000 this year and the rest came in 1973.

Members of Eagleton's campaign staff say he will spend $550,000 on the campaign. A member of Curtis' staff says the Republican will spend $300,000.

In the auditor's race, Ashcroft's people say he will spend $160,000 to $170,000, and Lehr is expected to spend from $200,000 to $250,000, counting the primary campaign.

The closest of the 10 U. S. House races is expected to be between Republican incumbent Gene Taylor and Democrat Richard Franks in the 7th District.

Democrats feel they have a good chance to unseat Taylor, who received campaign help during the weekend in a six-county tour by Curtis and state GOP leaders. Taylor is the state's only Republican in Congress.

In the 6th District of northwest Missouri, incumbent Jerry Litton is opposed by Gladstone insurance agent Grover H. Speers, a Republican. In the 8th, Richard Ichord, first elected to Congress in 1960, is opposed by State Sen. James A. Noland, a Republican from Osage Beach. In the 9th of Northeast Missouri, Republican Milton J. Bischof, a St. Louis County councilman, is challenging incumbent William Hungate of Troy.

Bill Burlison, incumbent in the 10th District of Southeast Missouri, expects to beat Republican Truman Farrow of Jackson. On the west side of the state, William Randall of Independence and Richard Bolling of Kansas City, both incumbents, are opposed by Claude Patterson of Appleton City and John McDonough of Kansas City, respectively.

Republican Jo Ann Raisch of Affton, wife of a state legislator, seeks to oust incumbent Leonor Sullivan of St. Louis. In the 2nd District, incumbent James Symington is opposed by Republican Howard C. Ohlendorf, and in the first, Republican Arthur O. Martin is running against incumbent William Clay.

Independent candidates are Clifford E. Talmage of Ballwin in the U. S. Senate race, Marie S. Nowak vs. Mrs. Sullivan and Mrs. Raisch, and Edward Verburg of Kansas City in the 5th District House race.

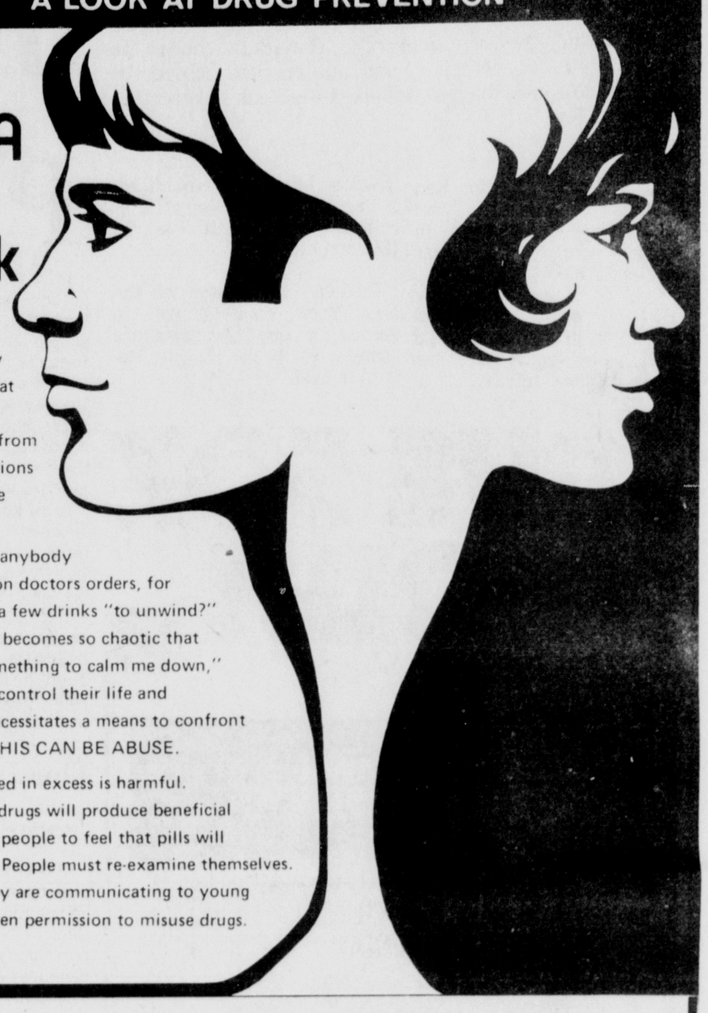
PERSPECTIVES-
A LOOK AT DRUG PREVENTION
Take A Hard Look



It is a generally accepted premise that children learn more from example than from all the good instructions and intentions in the world.

Have you seen anybody take tranquilizers "on doctors orders, for my nerves" or have a few drinks "to unwind?" When a person's life becomes so chaotic that they must have "something to calm me down," it is the inability to control their life and environment that necessitates a means to confront day to day living. THIS CAN BE ABUSE.

Any drug used in excess is harmful. The fact that many drugs will produce beneficial results has led some people to feel that pills will solve all problems. People must re-examine themselves. They might find they are communicating to young people their unspoken permission to misuse drugs.

Today in U. S. History

Today is Tuesday, Nov. 5, election day. It is the 309th day of 1974 and there are 56 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1940, President Franklin Roosevelt was elected to an unprecedented third term.

On this date —

In 1605, Guy Fawkes, a conspirator, was seized as he was about to blow up the British House of Lords.

In 1872, Susan B. Anthony, the women's suffragist, voted for Ulysses Grant for President. Women did not have the vote and she was fined $100 for illegal voting.

In 1912, Woodrow Wilson was elected President.

In 1940, election returns were televised for the first time.

In 1946, a new career in politics began as John Kennedy was elected to the U.S. House of Representative at the age of 29.

Ten years ago: A U.S. space probe, Mariner Three, was launched toward Mars, but failed due to a malfunction.

Five years ago: Anti-war demonstrators were driven away from a research laboratory at Massachusetts Institute of Technology by several hundred policemen.

One year ago: Dirty trickster Donald Segretti was sentenced to six months in prison.

Today's birthdays: Philosopher and historian Will Durant is 89 years old. Former cowboy star Roy Rogers is 62.

Thought for today: When anger rises, think of the consequences — Confucius.

Dr. Lamb

You can cook without eggs

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband cannot eat eggs. Is there any way I can fix cakes, rolls and desserts for him without using eggs?

DEAR READER — Yes. You would be surprised how many recipes turn out just fine by leaving the egg out entirely. Pancakes are a good example. Use your favorite recipe but leave the egg out entirely, and you will still have good cakes. The same goes for rolls and breads.

Do some experimenting with standard recipes, and you will soon spot all kinds of ways you can provide breads and desserts without causing your husband any problem.

I would recommend one of the new low-fat, low-cholesterol egg preparations, but I am afraid your husband may have a problem that would not tolerate these if his problem is something more than just wanting to reduce the cholesterol and fat intake in the diet.

Incidentally, I have a large number of recipes that contain no eggs at all in my book, "What You Need to Know About Food and Cooking for Health" (Viking Press). Ask your local library for the book.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband has just returned home from the hospital. He had an operation for kidney stones and had to have his left kidney removed. He is 38 years old.

The doctor tells us not to worry because you only need one healthy kidney to function normally. But, I want to know all I can about how I can help my husband keep his kidney healthy and not to get any more stones. Can you give me a few suggestions?

DEAR READER — There is just one practical suggestion that applies to what you and your husband can do. Regardless of the type of stone, or its cause, he should be certain to drink at least four quarts of liquid a day. This should be spread out over the 24 hours. The purpose of the fluid is to be sure he passes lots of urine each day. The larger volume will help to dilute the relatively insoluble salts that are part of the stone formation.

If he perspires a lot or is exposed to heat, that might not be enough. In that case he will need to increase his fluid intake even more.

Although special diets are sometimes used in testing patients with renal stones, most authorities agree there is no need to restrict dairy products to try to avoid stones.

There are different types of stones. Some are more likely to form if the urine is too acid and others if the urine is too alkaline. If your doctor knows the type of stones formed, he may want to try medicines that are sometimes used with varying success to prevent new stone formation. He may not think that is necessary in your husband's case.

Anyone who has a stone needs chemical tests to see if there is an abnormality in calcium metabolism, controlled by the little parathyroid glands on each side of the thyroid.

Kidney infections sometimes contribute to the formation of a stone. It is important to treat any sign of a kidney infection promptly.

All of these measures, except drinking the fluids, are up to your doctor, but drinking adequate fluids is one thing you can do, and it is important regardless of which kind of stone is formed.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on cholesterol, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for the "Cholesterol" booklet.

What's the law?

The case of the guzzling juror

By: JACK STRAUSS, LL.B.

Benny was the proprietor of a greasy spoon restaurant where his customers jumped almost as much as his food. Viewing the high jinks of Benny's customers with a juandiced eye, the local gendarms staked out the restaurant and' finally' arrented Benny on charges of selling intoxicating beverages to his customers without a license.

The heavy finger of Benny's guilt were three unopened bottles of beer that were found on his premises.

In due course, a trial was held and Benny was found guilty as charged. But, in clearing out the jury room, a court attendant happened to notice that the three "unopened" bottles of beer, which has been sent into the jury during their deliberation, along with other evidence, were enpty.

Upon being informed of this fact, Benny's cagy lawyer immediately demanded a new trial.

"The jury drank the evidence," he complained loudly to the judge."

"So what?" responded the district attorney."The crime was in selling the beer and not in drinking it. Since Benny was convicted fair and square, he's not entitled to a new trial."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you grant Benny a new trial because the jurors guzzled down the evidence?

This is how the judge ruled: YES! The judge held that if the jury drank the contents of the bottles in order to test their qualities as an intoxicant, they violated the law since jurors are not permitted to experiment with the evidence. And, concluded the judge, if they drank it in the spirit of bravado, their conduct was prejudicial to the man they were trying.

"Look,...there is the Lamb of God; it is he who takes away the sin of the world." (John 1:29 NEB)

PRAYER: Help us, dear God, to remember Thy Son is the light of the world, and we have no need to stay in the dark of our own despair. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive those who trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver usfrom from evil. For thine is the kingdom and the power, and the glory for every. Amen.

Below median rainfall predicted for November

By LEONARD F. HAND
Advisory Agricultural Meteorologist

PORTAGEVILLE — The above normal temperature trend featured during the latter part of October is carried into the month of November by the average monthly weather outlook. A narrow corridor along the lower and mid-Mississippi Valley is expected to record below median rainfall over the month of November. The Bootheel is barely included in the western fringe of that region.

To the west, over the bulk of Missouri, above median rainfall is anticipated.

The above normal temperature anomaly is carried well northward into Canada. This would indicate a continuing cutoff of the cold flow that brought the early October freeze to Southeast Missouri. Bear in mind that normal temperatures this time of year are on the decline and that above normal averages could still be comprised of several chilly periods interspersed with he warm spells.

Normal daily maximums range from 64 degrees early in November to a 52 to 54-degree range the lasts week in the month. Over that period, minimums show a decrease from about 42 to near 32 in a climatologically normal mnoth.

Gulf moisture remains in the precipitation picture for November Disturbances in the Rockies and Plains are likely to account for heavier than median totals in those regions, expected distribution would indicate that cold fronts will probably deliver several periods of wetting to the Mid-South Region.

Again, heavier precipitation appears to be associated with disturbances forming on the southern edge of these fronts, or from independent systems developing in the southeastern quadrant of the nation. These are areas to watch for rains of particular significance to the Bootheel harvest schedule.

Several weeks of field work remain for a number of farmers. Much of this is sensitive to wet periods, and distribution of shower patterns is often as important as the volume of rain that falls this time of year. Warmer than normal temperatures, plus the supply of moisture already delivered in late October, assure a good start for small grains. Drying power of mild air is not as potent as in the cold flow featured in October.

Cotton pickers and combines may have to accomodate to a shorter harvest day, depending upon how wetting periods are spaced. The extent of land preparation possible following harvest is still, a speculative proposition, but lighter than normal rainfall is the better of the categories available.

In cleared fields, however, evaporation will be the only mechanism operating to return excess water back to he atmosphere. By the end of October, daily rates of evaporation pan loss had diminished to near .12 to .16 inch. That was under better conditions. Cloudy and rainy days cut that to .04 to .06 inch.

Median rainfall for November over the Bootheel as a whole is about 3.25 inches. Climatological normal for the same period is 3.85 inches.

Normals for individual cities Advance, 3.40; Caruthersville, 3.92; Dexter, 396; Morehouse 3.82; Parma 4.08; Sikeston, 4.07; Cape Girardeau, 3.61; Clearwater Dam, 3.34; Doniphan, 3.25; New Madrid, 4.26; Poplar Bluff, 3.76; and Wappapello Dam, 3.76.

First step taken on RR signal

DEXTER - The first step toward installation of a flashing signal at the railroad crossing on One Mile Road was taken Monday night when the Board of Aldermen granted authority to Mayor Willis Conner and City Attorney Paul McGhee to pursue and to file a complaint with the Missouri Public Service Commission, if necessary.

The action was taken following the latest accident at the crossing. Approximately 2,400 vehicles cross the tracks daily, and the crossing has been the scene of numerous accidents

Conner has repeatedly stated that the crossing is dangerous and that he can see no reason why the railroad should not be required to install a flashing signal, and he said the city will make every legal effort to have a signal installed.

The board accepted a bid of $4,995 from City Motor Sales for a new truck. The bid includes trade-in of a 1967 model, with the company to refund the excise tax. The only other bid received was from Medler-Davis Chevrolet in the amount of $5,398.85.

A total of $12,600 was the figure submitted to the board following an appraisal of damage to two pieces of property located on Arvin Road. Condemnation proceedings were brought against the property when the owners refused to grant the city an easement for construction purposes after being offered what the city considered a fair price.

According to McGhee, the $12,600 will be paid to the court, so the road can be completed. It will then be up to a jury to decide if the amount will be more or less.

In other action, the board passed ordinances to erect stop signs at the intersections of Arvin and One Mile roads and Fram and Arvin roads and to erect a yield sign at the corner of Arvin Road and Cooper Street.

The street department was asked to erect a no parking sign in the alley, south of Stoddard Street and between Locust and Walnut streets, after it was discovered that parking citations were being issued but no sign had been erected. An ordinance was passed recently to bar parking in the alley.

The board voted to rescind an ordinance which called for the paving of one block of Poplar, Hickory, Locust and Elm streets. The paving will be done at a later date.

Conner expressed his appreciation to the auxilitary police after a representative of the police department reported auxiliary policemen had worked 107 hours between Oct. 15 and Oct. 31 at no expense to the city.

Conner told board members that the latest report on the health of City Clerk George McCracken was that his condition is worse. McCracken suffered a stroke in September and has never regained consciousness.

Disbursements in October totaled $309,749.14.

"After 20 years of affluence, there is not much apparent readiness for acts of solidarity with a troubled world," said the panel, called the Rome Forum.

"We do not believe that either the 'old rich' of the industrialized world or the 'new rich' within OPEC (the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries) could live in peace and self-respect in a planet moving towards recurrent famine. Nor could they survive the rising violence of disorganization, disease and despair."

The 11-day conference, which drew delegates from more than 100 nations, was proposed by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger at the United Nations General Assembly last fall. Kissinger arrived Monday night to speak at the opening session before hurrying on to the Middle East for a new attempt at getting Arab-Israeli peace negotiations going.

After three days of anti-American bombings, more than 1,000 soldiers and riot police were assigned to protect Kissinger and the other arriving delegates. The Italian Communist party called a big anti-American rally in the Piazza del Popolo, Rome's biggest downtown square about 10 miles from the conference site.

The conference is sponsored by the United Nations and has two goals: to plan immediate emergency measures to meet the current threat of widespread famine in Asia and Africa, and to plan long-range programs to end the threat of food shortages in the future.

The United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) recommended three main measures for consideration:

—Increase food production in the developing countries at least 35 per cent by 1985. FAO said this would require an annual investment of $5 billion.

—Make the distribution of existing foods more equitable.

—Establish international food reserves as insurance against famine due to crop failures and other disasters. The stocks would be strategically located and controlled by an international body.

Members of this group included British economist Barbara Ward, former U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman and Nobel Peace Prize winner Norman Borlaug, the author of the so-called green revolution.

Mrs. Moore asked the city to put up $1,500 as a sponsor of the Bill Bard Marionette Theatre Nov. 14-16. The show is being partially sponsored by the National Endowment of the Arts and the state arts council.

The city council declined to sponsor the program, saying it could not give money to a private organization. If the arts councils is created at a later date, the council said such programs could be sponsored by the city at that time.

The marionette theater will be in the city, with or without city financing, and will consist of performances and teacher workshops.

POLICE RADIO

The city accepted a grant of $13,263 from the Bootheel Law Enforcement Council to purchase a communications console for the police department.

The city will put up $1,473, or 10 per cent of the total cost of $14,730.

The console will be purchased from Motorola, the only company to submit a bid to the city.

The console will include a new base station and burglar alarm system, a tape recorder for recording all conversations and a panel which will show the status of all police cars in the city .

GRAVEL BIDS

The council accepted a low bid for $37,143 from Reece Trucking of Hayti for all gravel work at the new recreation complex. The work will be completed in 30 days.

Four other bids were received, including Ruhl Trucking, $64,070; W. S. McMullin, $49,123; A. James Excavating, $42,337; and Potashnick-Springs, Inc., $70,917

SHELTERED WORKSHOP

The council accepted a legal opinion by Drumm that it could not donate two acres of city land to the Community Sheltered Workshop as a site for a new building.

Drumm said the workshop is a federal agency, not a city organization, and the council cannot donate the land.

LIQUOR LICENSES

The Holiday Inn has returned its package liquor license to the city, but council refused to reissue it to anyone after discovering the city had been allowing one more license than permissible by ordinance.

The mixup came prior to the last census when a preliminary census showed a larger population figure than the final census. The license was issued on the preliminary census figure.

The council asked Church and Drumm to review the city's policy on the number of licenses issued per 1,000 people and may change the ordinance at a later date.

Drumm said that when he checked with other cities in the past, he found the amount of liquor consumption remained the same, regardless of the number of liquor stores.

Church said restrictions on the number of stores are necessary to prevent marginal operations which often yield to the temptation to violate liquor laws to sell more liquor.

Beer licenses were approved for Mary A. Pace, 839 W. Malone Ave.; Shirley Keegan, 1201 E. Malone Ave.; Liberty Supermarket; 142 N. Ranney St.; and Quick Sak, 1801 E. Malone Ave.

The council tabled requests for package liquor licenses by Elmer Oliver, Larry Lindsey, Jerry Helmes and Dearmont Oliver. Also tabled was a request by Louise Newton to have the beer license at Red's Tavern, 109 W. Malone Ave., listed in her name.

POLICE CAR

Sonny Presley Chevrolet submitted the low bid of $3,600 for a new police car for the detectives.

Other bids included Goza-Harper Motor Co., $3,699, and Sikeston Motor Co., $3,779. Bids were about $300 lower than previous bids which had been rejected because of irregularities in the bids submitted.

OTHER BUSINESS

T

The council approved the paving of Adams Street from the west side of Jaycee Street to the East side of Kiwanis Street.

Maurice Hixon, superintendent of the city steam plant, and City Clerk John Vaughn were approved to attend the annual meeting of the Missouri Local Government employes Retirement System, scheduled Nov. 19 and 20 in Jefferson City.

Hardin arrested

A number of firecrackers or some other type of explosive was apparently placed inside the mailbox and set off destroying the mail box.
